DAIRY EXPANSION. Mark Darr, left, and Gary Hill, both members of Ironworkers Local 392, bolt steel girders together Monday afternoon, creating the skeleton of a 6,000-square-foot addition to Prairie Farms Dairy in the 1900 block of Benton Street. The building will house new ice cream mix and buttermilk production lines, in addition to a storage area for materials and a cooler for storage of finished products before shipment. Production in the new facility is scheduled to begin on July 1.

Expert changes stand on merger

By GARY SCHNEIDER

Press-Record Editor
The Granite City Steel "plant itself is secure," predicted Donald F. Barnett, steel economist, who last week sent chills through many in the Quad-City area with a quote in the "USA Today" newspaper that the Granite City mill was a likely candidate for closing.

"It was a misstatement, not quite the way I put it," Barnett told the Press-Record. Granite City Steel is more likely a candidate for sale. However, we're all reading tea leaves," he said.

Barnett, a former chief economist for the American Iron and Steel Institute, said he would not be surprised if the local plant is sold to Japanese or Central American interests, since it does not seem to fit into the overall plan of United States Steel Corp., which announced last week that it has bid to buy all National Intergroup steel-making facilities, including GC Steel. "Some foreign groups have looked at it as an interesting purchase," he stated.

EVEN UNDER foreign ownership, the modern mill in Granite City would have a long future and salary levels should not change much, although significant raises in the future should not be expected. Foreign owners would likely import some steel slabs, increasing production on the GC mill's 83-inch hot rolling strip. The imported slabs, however, are not likely to reduce the amount of steel produced in Granite City, rather would supplement it, Barnett said.

He also predicted that more high-grade iron ore would be imported to Granite City by foreign owners, further increasing the local mill's production.

Barnett did not, however, rule out the possibility that U.S. Steel may wish to continue to own and operate the Granite City plant. "You have to

of the Press-Record
United Steelworkers of America's chief negotiator says an "open question" remains whether or not the union plans to oppose the sale of National Intergroup, Inc.'s steel operations, to United States Steel.

Both corporations are expected to meet separately with union officials prior to the sale, that is probably several months in the future.

Nine-year-old boy rescues little sister, gets 'reward'

MICHAEL HARRIS

By SUSAN SIGNAIGO-WEICH

of the Press-Record

When Michael Harris woke up on Jan. 26, he had no idea about what was in store for him. Before the end of the day, he would be labeled a hero, complete with a "reward."

Michael, 9-year-old son of the Rev. and Mrs. Jerry W. Harris, pastor of St. Paul's Church of the Nazarene, 4300 Maryville Road, was running a little late for school that morning. Instead of walking with his sisters to school, he and his brother, Jerry, wound up walking behind them.

WHILE WALKING, Rebecca (7 years old) and Christina (5 years old) were stopped by a woman, who asked Christina if she wanted a ride to school.

Michael noticed that the woman only wanted to pick up Christina and not Rebecca, so he became worried. At this point he started yelling, "Christina, run fast," and his sister obliged.

Michael said his sister kept running and the woman kept following her, trying to pick her up.

THE WOMAN finally gave up and shortly after this, Michael found more than $50 in cash lying on the sidewalk on Angela Drive.

When he arrived at school, Michael turned the money in to the office. He told Principal Jack Mulach that he was turning in the money because he was worried that the person who lost the money would need it.

He then relayed the story of the woman who had tried to pick up his little sister. Michael had managed to get a partial license plate number and a good description of the woman. THE MADISON County Sheriff's Department was called and Michael was told that a report will be on file about the woman. Mulach told police that he would make an effort to locate the owners of the money and, if he could not, he would return the money to Michael.

Eight days later, the owners still had not claimed the money and Michael was given his "reward."

Instead of spending all of the money on himself, Michael went on a shopping spree, purchasing a pocket knife for his father and presents for his two brothers and three sisters.

ALTHOUGH Michael's actions were commendable, his mother, Claudia, said she was a little surprised when the phone call from her school brought good news about her son.

"Michael's not bad, but he is an active little boy," she said. "So when Mr. Mulach called, I started giggling to myself, because I thought, 'What's Mike done now?'"

"But our family is really proud of Mike. He turned in the money because he didn't want the person, who lost the money to go without it."

"AND AS FOR his actions with Christina, we're grateful for what he did. Needless to say, we're keeping a close eye on her now."

Michael was given a certificate of achievement from Maryville School, a commendation letter from Madison County Sheriff Ernie J. Toffant and a certificate of recognition from his church.

"He's been getting a lot of recognition over this event and I think he's finally realizing what a good deed this is," his mother said.

Supt. B.J. Davis to retire in 1986

B.J. DAVIS
Plans to retire

By BILL WINTER

of the Press-Record

The Granite City Board of Education approved June 1986 retirement plans of Superintendent Bobby Joe Davis on Tuesday night and then fiercely debated the condition of Granite City High School and its equipment.

Pres. David Partney and Board Member Ruth Lahr said they saw an unacceptable number and degree of physical deficiencies when touring GCHS.

Also, changes and deletions in the high school's industrial shops over the years were assailed in a long discussion with the board by John P. Petish, a retired electrical engineer. He is a Tri-City Trades and Labor Council delegate to the school district's Citizens Advisory Council.

RETIREMENT 2½ years from now by Davis would complete a span of nearly 20 years in which he has been the district's chief administrator.

"It is my intention to retire effective June 30, 1986," Davis said in a letter to the board dated Feb. 6 (1984).

"It has been a great professional pleasure to have served this district, since the fall of 1969.

"The accomplishments that have been made in maintaining and advancing the quality of education, so long a trademark of Community Unit School District Nine, have been a great source of pride.

"Throughout these years, the board and staff of this district have given of themselves for the benefit of the children we serve. I have been honored to serve with each and every one.

"WE ALL HAD the same goal—to offer this community the best education that available human talents and financial resources allowed. I shall always be ready to assist this district in any manner. For all that it has meant to me, I could do no less."

No board discussion was held on the retirement decision. It was approved unanimously.

Although Davis has not been a target, there has been intense stress among some members of the administrative staff due to the district's expenditure-revenue imbalance and potential remedial steps.

Propose ending GC pollution program

By GEORGEANN MCGEE

of the Press-Record

The uneasiness that has settled down around the city since National Steel Corporation's probable sale was announced last week was made clear Tuesday following a suggestion that the city's air pollution control department be severed from the 1984-85 budget.

"I think we should let that smoke roll," Alderman Lloyd Bailey, Fifth Ward, said. His comments followed anxious remarks by other aldermen concerned about the fate of the city's chief industry and taxpayer, the Granite City Steel Division of National Steel Corp. (Now National Intergroup, Inc.).

NONE OF THE aldermen objected to the possible axing of the pollution department proposed by First Ward Alderman Casmer Skubish, chairman of the air pollution committee and a former employee of both the air pollution department and Granite City Steel. He plans to formally request the department be disbanded as soon as budget talks begin in earnest.

Skubish, a long-time supporter of the department, said he was acting on the apparent wishes of aldermen, who rejected by 9 to 4 an earlier motion to reapply for federal funds to support the department. Aldermen talked again Tuesday when Alderman Carl Kittel, Third Ward, suggested the city involve itself in any federal suits against Granite City Steel, which might net fines that could support the pollution department.

Skubish said he got the impression some aldermen fear a strong air control department would further jeopardize the future of Granite City

BACK TO BASICS. Four-year-old Renee Bevin carefully traces letters of the alphabet Tuesday afternoon at the Granite City Head Start Center at old Logan School. Classes for the preschoolers, suspended Dec. 6 when program funds handled by the Madison County Economic Opportunity Commission were frozen, restarted throughout the county this week. Head Start is presently administered by Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, but a permanent sponsor for the program is being sought.

Centers help students continue their education

Counselors at the Educational Opportunity Centers (EOC) are looking for low-income adults who never finished high school.

"Many dropouts are unemployed or in low-paying, dead-end jobs," says Stephen R. Colbert, EOC project director. "They need to upgrade their skills if they are going to improve the quality of their lives, but they need to finish high school first," he said.

Colbert heads a team that provides free information and counseling on education after high school to low-income and unemployed adults. The project, under the auspices of the Higher Education Center of St. Louis, is funded by a grant from the U.S. Department of Education and contributed services of area colleges, universities and libraries.

"During the past three months we provided counseling and information to more than a thousand new EOC participants. Of these, more than a third were dropouts from high school but 181 were busy working on a GED. He told them simply that they can't get into higher education until they've completed lower education, and "We've shown them how to go about getting a GED—high school equivalency," noted Colbert. "Some dropouts are afraid to even consider college," he says. "They figure age is against them, but we hurry to point out that about a third of the 12 million students enrolled in degree programs in the U.S. are over 25 years of age."

"Many times it isn't necessary for the older student to go for a degree. Sometimes selected courses to upgrade current skills will be enough to help upgrade employment potential," he adds.

"And financial aid is available," Colbert points out, "particularly for the low-income student." Colbert is inviting dropouts to call Educational Opportunity Centers and make an appointment to see a counselor. The central office number in St. Louis is 1-314-991-2700. In Belleville the number is 1-235-1776 and in East St. Louis 271-2643.

Summer camp will introduce students to aerospace jobs

Applications are now being accepted for limited enrollments in an aerospace summer camp that will be offered for high school students in June at Parks College in Cabot, Mo.

The camp is a joint offering of Parks College and the Ferguson-Florissant School District, where officials are developing an aerospace curriculum at Berkeley High School.

The summer camp is designed to give high school students an introduction to the career opportunities in the aerospace field. Students who attend the summer camp will have actual flight experience and will do actual rocket construction. In addition, they will have an orientation in professional piloting, aerospace engineering, meteorology, transportation, travel and tourism, airframe and powerplant, aeronautical administration and avionics. Parks College faculty members will serve as instructors for the summer camp.

Two sessions will be offered and each session can accommodate only 24 students. Students will be accepted on a first-come, first-served basis. The first session will be held from June 4 through 8 and the second session will be held June 11 through 15.

Students who will be entering 10th through 12th grades in the fall are eligible to attend the camp. Enrollment is open to all students in the metropolitan area. The cost is $120 per session and some scholarships are available.

Lodging will be provided in the college dormitories at Parks College Campus. Transportation to Parks has to be provided by the student's family.

For more information, interested students may write Henry Prokop, principal, Berkeley High School, 8710 Walter Ave., Berkeley, Mo., 63134, or call 1-314-595-2240.

WALLET IS STOLEN

While shopping at the Kroger store in Nameoki Village Shopping Center, late last week, Mary Cadaret, 2413 Edwards St., reported someone stole from her purse a wallet containing $150, which she received after cashing a check in store. Also missing were her driver's license and personal papers.

GC man beaten in East St. Louis jail

The Federal Bureau of Investigation is investigating the severe beating of Walter Debow, 40, of Granite City, Jan. 25 in the East St. Louis Police Department's jail, according to an article in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Another prisoner in the same cell allegedly beat him.

The paper says Debow remains in a coma in a St. Louis hospital. Debow was arrested after officers alleged he had an open can of beer in his car when the vehicle hit a utility pole in East St. Louis.

Debow was treated after the accident at St. Mary's Hospital in East St. Louis and then was jailed with another prisoner. Later, officers heard noises in the cell and found Debow on the floor bleeding from his head. The other prisoner had blood on his hands, trousers and steel-toed boots.

Buy or rent telephones? Pamphlet can help

By CATHERINE R. MAUCK
Extension Adviser

If Alexander Graham Bell were alive today, would he know how to choose between buying a telephone and renting one? He would know that and much more if he had a copy of "How To Buy A Telephone," a free guide available from the federal government's Consumer Information Center.

Even though the recent breakup of AT&T means you may save money by buying your own phone, you do not have to buy one. You can keep on renting the phone you have in your home already.

If you do choose to buy a phone, you could save anywhere from $20 to $60 a year, depending on which type of phone you have and where you live. You can either buy the same phone you have been using or go out and buy a new one.

When you get ready to buy, ask about warranties. Some are as short as 30 days and others last for up to five years. Be sure to check whether the phone is covered by a warranty that covers any problems, or if the warranty is a limited one. Find out whether the phone can be repaired locally both under the warranty and after it expires, or if it will have to be shipped to the factory. If it must be shipped, be sure you know who will pay for the shipping and whether a loaner will be available.

If you have several phones, be sure at least one is a basic, standard model with solid construction and a good repair record. Avoid phones with a permanently attached cord because, if it breaks, the whole unit must be fixed or discarded.

There are many other things to consider when buying a phone. And "How To Buy A Telephone" will help you make those decisions. For a free copy of the booklet, send a postcard to the Consumer Information Center, Dept. 76, Pueblo, Colo. 81009.

Youth tackled by employee in store

Responding to a call this week from Shop 'N Save food store, 3250 N. Main St., officers found two employees holding Michael T. Eason, 17, of Granite City, on the floor.

Employee Paul Besserman alleged that Eason attempted to leave the store without paying for a carton of cigarettes which allegedly were inside his jacket.

When confronted by Besserman, Eason reportedly ran toward the rear of the store, where he was tackled by the employee and a struggle ensued, with Besserman allegedly being struck by Eason in the right shoulder with a fist and pushed to the floor.

A second employee, Jeff Waggoner, was scratched in the face and also pushed to the floor while trying to assist Besserman in restraining the man, he told police.

Eason was booked on two state complaints alleging battery and retail theft. It also was alleged that he was being sought by authorities in Michigan.

The youth was unable to provide police a local address, although reporting that he had lived for the past two years in Kirkpatrick Homes.

In a court appearance Monday, Eason pleaded innocent to the charges and waived extradition proceedings.

A mittimus was issued and he was transferred later the same day to the Madison County Jail at Edwardsville.

DAMAGE PARKED AUTO
"After his auto was involved in an accident earlier this week, Jim Moore, 2320 Delmar Ave., left the car parked in the 2400 block of Edison Avenue and returned to find a set of temperature gauges and a 12-volt battery had been stolen. The front grill on the car was broken out and the electrical system also was damaged, he advised police.

Free toothbrushes at Dental Fair on Sunday

The annual Children's Dental Health Fair will be Feb. 12 at Alton Square Shopping Center. Sponsored by the Southern Illinois University School of Dental Medicine, Lewis and Clark Community College and the Madison County Dental Society, the fair will run from 11 a.m. until 4 p.m.

February has been designated as Children's Dental Health Month by the American Dental Association. The purpose of the Alton fair is to focus the public's attention on the importance of preventing dental disease, particularly for children.

Fairgoers will have the opportunity to play games at booths located near the shopping mall's escalators. Students from each class at the dental school will host the booths, having games that depict various aspects of good dental health.

Students enrolled in the Dental Assisting Program and dental laboratory technology classes at Lewis and Clark Community College, as well as members of the SIU School of Dental Medicine Auxiliary, also will sponsor game booths at the fair.

Dr. Neal Roller, coordinator of this year's fair, announced that children who bring along their old toothbrushes will be able to exchange them for new ones. Last year, 1,500 children took advantage of the opportunity.

Additional information concerning the fair may be obtained by contacting Dr. Roller by calling 1-463-3858.

Fashions for every member of wedding party

Despite the snowstorm Sunday afternoon, approximately 300 people attended Bridal Fair '94, sponsored by Mrs. Seibold's Bake Shops and Inge's Brides and Formal, at the Granite City Township Hall, 2060

Delmar Ave. Music during the afternoon event was provided by "Horizons" and 17 participating exhibitors hosted booths featuring various items appropriate for weddings and the bridal party. Shirley Adams, radio personality, who served as commentator for the fashion show, stands beside a wedding cake prepared for display by Mrs. Seibold's.

Standing on the stage, decorated with silk floral arrangements by Shirl K Floral Designs, is the first couple, Rhonda Vest modeling a bridal gown and her escort, Stacy Gossett, wearing a formal tuxedo.

A miniature bride couple, Timmy Bosworth, left, and Becky Shafer in a long lace frock complimented with short veil, captures the audience attention. Many prizes and gifts were presented throughout the afternoon by the local merchants who took part in the annual affair by sponsoring booths that displayed items and products essential to the wedding.

Computer Awareness meeting Feb. 16

By RONALD E. CORNWELL

U. of I. Extension Adviser

A "Computer Awareness Meeting" will be conducted Thursday, Feb. 16, from 1 to 4 p.m. at the Farm Bureau Auditorium, 900 Hillsboro, Edwardsville.

This is a program that every farmer or other person with an interest in computers should attend. Computers will become more important to farmers as we move into the 1990's. This program will make you more aware of some of these uses.

The program will include a presentation on "Is There a Computer in Your Future." Also, an Illinois Agricultural Software Source Guide for the Private Sector will be distributed. A publication entitled "Thinking about a Microcomputer" will be available at a cost of $2.

Demonstrations of microcomputer hardware and software will be conducted. This will give you a chance to see a computer in operation and some of the software that is available.

Displays will be available before the meeting from commercial computer firms.

Davis retiring

ministrative and supervisory jobs is continuing, with a final report to the board slated for Feb. 21.

MRS. LAHR said there is a "hodge-podge" of GCHS furniture and equipment, much of it not matching, creating an atmosphere for students that is "not conducive to learning."

An old school—known as South High in 1973-83—GCHS is operating at present with some of its own furnishings and some that was transferred from the former North High, now the Granite City Center of Bellevue Area College under a ten-year lease.

After Mrs. LaHR mentioned being shocked by what she saw of GCHS conditions, an extensive discussion ensued on what still needs to be moved from North and whether the school district can still shift items being used by the college.

GCHS Principal Gilbert Wamsley, formerly North's principal, said he has received a number of requests from faculty members for improved classroom facilities.

BOARD MEMBERS Monroe Worthen and Thomas Miosky urged that such requests be made in writing and forwarded promptly through channels to the administrative staff and board. Any that have cost-related implications can then be made a part of the district's budget planning, they said.

Supt. B.J. Davis said Granite City Center has cooperated fully with the school district in all matters, including equipment transfers, and he thinks there will be continued cooperation.

Ronald Landman, director of buildings and grounds, said there are inventory lists of all items and that some have not yet been moved because of lack of space.

Earlier, time also was a factor as the district worked during the summer to combine 18 schools into 12 in time for the fall 1983 semester, he said.

Treasurer Kelly Hogan and Pres. Partney said the lease with the college apparently fails to fully spell out the school district's equipment transfer rights.

PRINCIPAL WAMSLEY said teachers and department heads are hopeful of obtaining a chemistry laboratory, art instructional facilities, home economics equipment and similar furniture and appliances.

Since plumbing and other utility revisions are involved, some of the proposed work could best be done in the summer, a discussion brought out. Current tasks include moving student lockers from two elementary schools, it was noted.

Partney agreed with points made by Mrs. LaHR and said some areas of GCHS have hazards, such as protruding angle irons, that could injure students.

The board president said an existing hotel and economic area at the high school, utilizing gas ranges, apparently has faulty connections. There is a strong smell of raw gas there, he related.

Supt. Davis said school officials have brought numerous building problems to the public's attention but that voters in 1980 rejected a bond issue that would have financed renovations.

PARTNEY SAID said such an election today also would fail to pass, but that the district still must seek to improve its facilities and not let any extreme instances of building hazards continue.

He told of seeping floor tiles missing or with ragged edges, ceiling tiles that could fall and hurt someone, and other obvious defects.

Adequate solutions will be difficult to find if the public fails to approve essential funds. Worthen responded, asking, "Who is going to give us $2 million or $3 million?"

Miosky said GCHS is one of 12 schools in active use here and that structural and other problems exist at nearly all of them.

PETISH WAS GIVEN permission to speak and voiced dismay over relocation of the GCHS electrical shop, with the former site now used for an automotive repair shop moved from North.

He said it is little more than an auto "tune-up" area that cannot be used because of exhaust fumes.

Displaying photographs of the former electrical shop, including one taken in 1936, Petish said much of the instructional equipment was donated by industries and that the school system was wrong in discarding it.

Supt. Davis and Thomas Holloway, vocational director, said that both electricity and electronics are now being taught and that updating was necessary.

EXPERTS from industry and construction were consulted over the past two years to guide electrical equipment revisions, Holloway said.

Petish said he will pursue his complaint at future board and CAC meetings. Asserting that "I'll be back," he stressed his belief that basics of electrical theory have not changed substantially.

A two-minute limit on his remarks was waived because a soccer speaker had taken longer than that earlier in the meeting, but Partney finally gavelled the discussion to a halt after a series of verbal exchanges developed.

Worthen said that many of the purportedly missing articles of equipment were gone from the electrical shop long before he graduated from GCHS in 1951.

He added that the district has full jurisdiction over classroom equipment whether purchased or donated.

HOLLOWAY SAID school leaders obtained detailed advice before moving the teaching emphasis from electrical motors to motor controls.

Petish disagreed with the new emphasis and cited his long experience. Among other positions, he was chief electrician at the American Asphalt Roofing Corp. in East St. Louis, assistant general foreman for power, heat and light at American Steel Foundries' Cast Armor Division in East Chicago, Ind., and electrical maintenance supervisor of the A.O. Smith Corp. in Granite City.

Petish quoted briefly from news articles about vocational training and said he plans to present recommendations to the Illinois Commission on the Improvement of Elementary and Secondary Education.

He praised the GCHS electrical faculty and added, "It is sad that the facilities have been destroyed. Use of this space for tune-up stalls is a serious matter."

"There is no way to bring automobiles into the shop. What you've done is just like building a boat in a basement and not being able to remove it."

ST. LOUIS MAN ATTACKS BARTENDER, IS CHARGED
Thomas G. Thomas III, 24, St. Louis, was charged with disorderly conduct by the Madison Police Department after he allegedly attacked the bartender at Boshoff's Tavern, 1401 Madison Ave. Thomas was bleeding from the forehead, but refused medical treatment. He was released on a notice to appear in court.

American Heritage Bank to provide school tax loans

The Granite City Board of Education on Tuesday night designated the American Heritage Bank of Granite City to provide $2 million in tax anticipation warrants.

The successful bid listed 8.2 percent annual interest on $600,000 in first-year warrants and 8.3 percent on $1,400,000 in second-year warrants.

Borrowing will not be automatic but rather will be carried out as needed, Finance Director Norman Owens said.

The board decided Jan. 10 to seek sealed bids on school borrowing from financial institutions within the School District Nine boundaries, including banks and savings and loan associations.

Along with the successful American Heritage Bank proposal, the only other bid submitted to the schools by Monday's deadline was from the Granite City Trust and Savings Bank. Citing technical reasons, it contained no specific proposal.

To meet operating costs, the district pays interest for the use of funds a year and two years before real estate tax collections. It is attempting to achieve a break-even year in 1983-84 and then to begin reducing the debt.

Previous school warrants have been obtained from the Trust and Savings Bank, and the current interest rate being paid for first-year warrants obtained from that bank is 8.5 percent.

The schools' borrowing limit is 85 percent of tax revenue in each of the two years.

The estimated extension of 1983 education fund taxes for 1984 collection is $7,300,000 and projected corporate personal property replacement tax revenue is $1,800,000.

The district has borrowed $121,454 from its working cash fund. That transfer will be repaid this summer.

think, "What is the game plan?" I'm not sure they (U.S. Steel officials) know at this point," he said that prior to the National purchase announcement, "Every steel analyst, including myself, said U.S. Steel is getting out of the steel business." U.S. Steel said lack of modernization and improvements at most U.S. Steel mills was the basis for that prediction.

NOW, IT IS clear that U.S. Steel is attempting to "design a mill complex with West Gary (Ind.) and Great Lakes. It is a good full roll strategy," but it is not clear how Granite City fits in. Granite City serves the same market," he said.

Barnett, co-author of the book "Steel, Upheaval in the Basic Industry," described the Granite City facility as "a heck of a good mill. One of the best in the country."

He analyzed the mill, its various departments and the anticipated future of each department as follows:

COKE OVEN BATTERIES
"The Granite City Steel coke facilities are fairly new. It's hard to say. There are a lot of facilities (steel mills) in the U.S. which don't have coke facilities. Most coke batteries are of older age and near the end of their useful life. When the market recovers, there will be a coke problem (shortage). Your plant has a plus on coke and is in a good location in regards to the supply of coal."

THE BLAST FURNACES
Barnett predicted that the blast furnaces will continue to operate at their current level or higher. If a foreign owner decides to import iron ore, "It is better to import ore than to bring ore into the Great Lakes," he said. Brazil or Venezuela could make the best use of the Granite City facility, he feels.

BASIC OXYGEN FURNACES
As the next step in steelmaking after the blast furnaces, the BOF shop should continue at its present level or higher, if output from the blast furnaces are increased.

ROLL FINISHING
"Granite City has a good finishing line, but not enough cold rolling. A foreign owner might want to bring in some slabs" for the hot roll line, which is not operating at capacity, he indicated. Also, the new owners, whether U.S. Steel or a foreign owner, might consider either increasing Granite City's cold rolled or galvanized capacity, he said.

GALVANIZING LINE
Barnett sees a bright future for galvanized steel in the United States. "More galvanized steel is being used in the automotive industry and the indications are that the demand will increase further, and very significantly. However, there are other competitors. If U.S. Steel keeps Granite City Steel, they might take advantage of this (increase in galvanized steel demand), he noted. Barnett said USA Today apparently mixed up several of his statements and that his intention was to say that the Fairfield plant (in north Alabama) cannot be made more cost-efficient and is a candidate for closing, even though U.S. Steel has announced it plans to make some improvements to Fairfield, including adding a continuous slab caster. "Fairfield is a mistake, not Granite City. The Fairfield location is a disadvantage. It will never be a low-cost mill. It will be one of the highest, even after modernization, he predicted."

Barnett said Steelworkers should be concerned more about their salaries than their jobs. "Salaries are going to be an issue. There is discussion for some time. The American industry cannot afford to pay these rates. Most other steel companies have had concessions," he said.

NOTING THAT National Steel employees already have made some concessions, Barnett said, "I don't expect to see a (further) cut, but look for very little improvement in wages over the years."

He warned that a major strike in the basic steel industry in America could jeopardize the current recovery and the future of the whole steel industry. Other industries could fill the void and imports would undoubtedly increase greatly during a strike. "Mini-mills are growing and will be in flat rolling by the end of the decade. Their products will be less expensive, but not of the super quality of Granite City Steel. These mini-mills would have a major impact on salaries (in the basic steel industry), he predicted."

IN SUMMARY, Barnett said he is confident that Granite City Steel will remain an important supplier of steel into the future, whether under U.S. Steel or another owner. All departments have secure futures (except possibly the office jobs, which he did not address), increases in production of the blast furnaces, basic oxygen furnaces and hot strip line are very possible using materials brought in from outside of the plant, demand for continuous cast steel will remain strong and the cold rolled or galvanized lines.

Pollution Program

Steel — a position he says is contrary to the facts.

"I THINK the air pollution department has always been helpful. I don't think we've ever been hard on Granite City Steel," Skubish said. "We've been liberal enough. We've never hindered their programs. That's our true history with Granite City Steel and all our industries."

Other aldermen chose to defend the plant, rather than discuss the already gutted air pollution department. Second Ward Alderman Sam Whitmer, a retired electrician from Granite City Steel, said, if Granite City Steel closes, "We're dead." He cited a past six-month-long strike that had caused unemployment problems throughout the city.

"They were laying off clerks and everyone else," he explained. "Our priority is to keep the mill going seven days a week, 24 hours a day...because that keeps this town going."

MAYOR PAUL Schuler agreed with Whitmer that the city, school and other local taxing districts are dependent on the operation of Granite City Steel.

"I do not have any fear," Skubish said, concerning the future of steel plant. "There's no reason why they can't be healthy."

The air pollution department which he will ask be eliminated has only one remaining employee who does only a few hours a week to air pollution control. It is likely the employee will continue with his other engineering duties. The dismantling of the department should mean little or no savings to the city.

legal department to begin gathering preliminary information on the possible effects of the sale.

The information would include any likely conflicts of production or sales between National Steel and U.S. Steel plants. Such situations are viewed by the union official as possible causes of future plant closings. U.S. Steel recently eliminated 15,400 jobs when it closed several of its own facilities.

Davis said the conflict could pit GC Steel against U.S. Steel's Gary, Ind., plant, where a new continuous slab caster line is being constructed. If U.S. Steel finds that line more cost effective than the local one, "that would have a substantial impact on Granite City," Davis said.

"IN ALL honesty, I'm trying to look at all the pluses and minuses," Davis said Wednesday, but he could not foresee the probable sale creating any new jobs.

He cited four basic reasons why the union might oppose the sale. His first concern is the plant vs. plant conflict that could have a greater impact on U.S. Steel plants with less modern facilities, rather than the more up-to-date National plants. The loss of any employees, however, would not be in the best interests of the Steelworkers union.

Davis' second area of worry is that a merger of National Steel and U.S. Steel, coupled with other expected steel industry mergers, could mean three companies would be responsible for 85 percent of the nation's steel output. The danger to Steelworkers is the concentration of such power in so few hands, Davis said. He predicts the situation could make the bargaining position of employees difficult.

A THIRD consideration is how much money U.S. Steel is willing to invest in companies, such as Granite City Steel. "What is their future commitment," Davis asked. The union official will have to weigh what sort of shift employee and administrative

input and thank customers

The Bi-State Development Agency, operator of the St. Louis area's public transportation system, announced today a campaign to encourage passenger and public input in the design of bus routes. Also announced were promotions to thank present bus riders for their continuing support.

Beginning in March, Bi-State will begin a modest informational campaign to seek public input in the design of bus routes. "Transit service in the St. Louis area has not been the subject of a major reorganization since Bi-State acquired the system in 1963," Michael Setzer, general manager of transit, explained to the board of commissioners' Transit Committee. "Bi-State is proposing to reorganize service in the St. Louis area to reflect many changes which have taken place in the urban area over the last 10 to 20 years. We intend to do this," Setzer said, "without increasing the overall costs of operating public transit in the metropolitan area."

In order to gather as much useful planning information as possible, Bi-State will conduct on-board rider origin and destination studies, telephone surveys of non-riders, ask residents through newspaper ads to help design new or better routes, and encourage passengers to give their comments on bus service.

At the same time, Bi-State will conduct promotions thanking passengers for using public transportation. Included among the activities planned will be a special "red carpet" bus offering free rides to passengers at random times and locations. "We hope the promotions will boost enthusiasm for riding the bus," Setzer said, "and it is our way of saying 'thank you' to our riders."

"We want the people of the St. Louis metropolitan area to take a new look at Bi-State," Setzer said, "because Bi-State is taking a new look at them."

SEMC offers 'Fresh Start'
from smoking sessions here

The Pulmonary Unit at St. Elizabeth Medical Center will present a stop-smoking clinic during the month of March.

The "Fresh Start Program" was developed by the American Cancer Society and will be led by Terri Johnson, registered nurse in the Pulmonary Unit.

The series of four 90-minute sessions will begin on Monday, March 5, and continue on March 12, 19 and 26 from 7 p.m. to 8:30 p.m.

Nurse Johnson stated that a different aspect of the quitting process will be dealt with each week. It will begin with each individual identifying his reasons for smoking, and continue with help in making it through the first days of quitting, tips for coping with the most tempting times and conclude with ideas to motivate yourself to stay off cigarettes for good. According to Joyce Kerch, manager of the unit, the clinic will be limited to 15 participants, however, it will be offered every three months during the coming year.

For more information or an application, any interested person may call the SEMC Public Relations Department at 728-3167. Cost for the four-week program and materials is $15.

FRANK'S TAX FACTS

Have you been reassigned to a new job location by your employer or relocated to a new area yourself to find employment? If you have you may be entitled to a substantial income adjustment called "moving expenses." There are two main tests which must be met to take the deduction. First, your new job must be at least 35 miles further from your home than your old job was and, secondly, you must work or expect to work 39 weeks during the first 12 months in the new area. The cost of moving household goods, traveling to your new home, househunting trips, temporary lodging expenses, and some of the cost of disposing of your old home can be deducted on form 3903 as moving expenses. This can result in the saving of several hundred tax dollars. If I can help you prepare your 1983 tax returns, feel free to call me for a fee estimate and an appointment.

Local man receives medals after 10 years

By SUSAN SIGNAIGO-WEICH
of the Press-Record

Jack Mitlovich, 49, a former resident of Madison, was given a hero's welcome in Staunton, Ill., last month when the local Veterans of Foreign Wars (VFW) Post hosted an award ceremony for him. Mitlovich received six medals for his service in the U.S. Army, 10 years after he officially retired.

Mitlovich, who served in the U.S. Army for 22 years, was stationed in Korea, Japan, Germany, St. Louis and New Orleans. In August 1974, he was given a medical dispensation from the Army because of a heart condition.

"I KNEW at the time that I had some medals, but I didn't apply for them," said Mitlovich. "I really didn't become interested in the medals until about two months ago, when the doctor told me I might have to undergo some pretty serious heart surgery."

"The doctors didn't seem too optimistic at the time, so I started thinking about my wife, Janis."

We've only been married about a year and I thought, 'what happens if I don't make it?' I wanted her to have something to remember me by. 'I hadn't saved any of my uniforms, so I thought the only thing I really had to give her were my medals.'"

MITALOVICH said that he contacted Congressman Dick Durbin's office and explained his problem. Within two months, Mitlovich had his medals.

"When I found out that Congressman Durbin would be able to get my medals, I was really excited," he said. "I didn't think he'd (Durbin) be able to get them so fast. His office did a good job."

"I also was surprised when I found out that the local VFW was going to have a ceremony for me. I thought they (the U.S. Army) were just going to mail them to me. But it made things much more exciting with my family getting to see me presented with the medals."

MITALOVICH was presented with the Army Commendation Medal, the National Defense Medal, the Korean Service Medal, the United Nations Medal, the Good Conduct Medal and an Expert Rifleman Medal.

Mitlovich, his wife, Janis, and his stepchildren, Robert and Debbie Patrick and Dawn Ulrich, reside in Staunton. He also has two children from a previous marriage, Victoria of St. Louis and John of Bowling Green, Mo. His brother, Nick Mitlovich, and a sister, Louise Gwasdard, both reside in Granite City.

COLLISION INJURES THREE
An ambulance was dispatched last week to Nameoki Road at Garfield Avenue, where the front of the northbound auto of Karla Stawar, 18, of 2569 Buenger Blvd. collided with the right front of the car of Linda Gray, 36, Manchester, Mo. The latter was southbound and turning left to go east on Garfield. There were injuries to both drivers and to a passenger in the Stawar vehicle, Deborah Tillman, 30, of 3539 Edison Ave. Both cars were towed from the scene.

MINOR INJURY OCCURS IN 2-VEHICLE MISHAP
In a two-car mishap in the 3400 block of Nameoki Road late last week, Laneiva D. Henderson, 27, of 2313 Miracle Ave., one of the drivers, sustained an injury. William L. Herman, 83, of 2711 Center St., driver of the second car involved, was traveling north on Nameoki when the Henderson car pulled from a restaurant driveway, reports said.

Tax assistance offered the elderly at the Red Cross

Persons 60 years-of-age or older can learn how to fill out their own income tax returns with free assistance from the Tri-City Chapter of the American Red Cross.

Specialty-trained volunteers will be available on Tuesdays and Fridays from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. at 21st Street and Edison Avenue, to help older taxpayers complete their own forms. The volunteers also will answer questions on estimated tax for individuals, the special treatment of the gain on the sale of a home, reporting taxable pension income, and other tax matters of interest to older Americans.

Individuals who need help should bring the 1983 tax package they received in the mail, their wage and earnings statements (W-2s), statements for recipients or periodic annuities, pensions, retirement pay or IRA payments (W-2Ps); interest and dividend statements from financial institutions (Form 1099s), and other relevant information on income and expenses.

The Red Cross sets up and operates the volunteer assistance sites as part of the Tax Counseling for the Elderly Program, sponsored by the Internal Revenue Service.

For more information, interested persons may call the Red Cross at 878-0606 or the IRS toll-free at 1-800-424-1040.

Madison County Bar provides free advice

The Madison County Bar Association and KMOX Radio are sponsoring a program once a month that provides free legal advice for Metro-East residents. The program, called "Ask a Lawyer," is available to the public from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. on the third Saturday of each month.

Although the program is not on the air at KMOX, it is part of the radio station's call for action schedule. The show is not aired so that callers may receive confidential advice.

"The program offers legal advice that concerns everything from domestic relations, to wills, to real estate. We cover a whole gamut of problems," said Attorney Dennis Orsey, one of the lawyers who is volunteering his time for the show.

"We wanted people to know that the Madison County Bar Association cares about people who cannot afford a lawyer," he said, "so we are volunteering our time and are giving advice for free."

Orsey said that if the legal problem is too complex to clear up in one phone call, there are several inexpensive legal firms where a caller may be referred.

Persons wishing to receive legal advice may call KMOX on the third Saturday of every month at 1-314-421-1976. Calls will only be accepted between 11 a.m. and 1 p.m.

BURGLAR TAKES JEWELRY

Five items of gold jewelry—three rings, a heart and praying hands—were taken by a burglar last week at the home of Mrs. Helen Hileman, 1649 Poplar St. In an unrelated burglary, coins totaling $50 were taken from the home of Herbert Cline, 710 N. 28th Place.

AN EARLY VICTORY IN A LONG FIGHT

The U.S. Steel Corporation's recent decision to abandon its efforts to import semi-finished steel made by the British is an important victory for our Union, the many members of Congress who supported us, and many others—including a large segment of the press.

The United Steelworkers of America greatly appreciates the efforts of all those who stood with us during this controversy. If the deal for the highly-subsidized, government-owned British steel had been completed, it would have thrown additional thousands of steelworkers out of work.

They would have joined the growing ranks of steelworkers who are suffering the agonies of unemployment because of subsidized steel imports, obsolete mills and plants, or arbitrary management decisions.

In the British steel deal, we saw the ugly spectacle of a major American corporation and a foreign government trying to make steel policy for the United States.

The same thing is happening in numerous other American industries where subsidized foreign products, made by workers who are paid less than the American minimum wage, are dumped on our market. The inevitable result is the human misery of unemployment, wage reductions, tax loss and the depression of entire communities and areas.

What we clearly must have in the United States is something the other nations of the world already have—a rational National Industrial Policy. Such a policy would include a government effort to promote the growth and vitality of the nation's industries and would protect individual workers from the effects of radical economic change over which they have no control.

Certainly this includes arbitrary plant closings and relocations. No other modern industrial society, for example, allows employers to move operations hundreds of miles in search of tax breaks and non-union labor—a practice which destroys the lives of workers and their communities.

As we work toward the adoption of a National Industrial Policy, we must deal with the immediate problem of subsidized steel imports. Acting jointly with a major steel producer, our Union has joined a Section 201 petition seeking quantitative restraints on steel imports into this country. We intend to do everything in our power to eliminate the unfair foreign practices which are destroying the American steel industry and bringing hardship and heartache to our members.

We proved in the British steel deal that hard-hitting action is effective in protecting the jobs of American workers. With the same sort of support from Congress and others, we can now move to establish a managed steel trade system and develop a National Industrial Policy.

We Need Managed Steel Trade Now, and a National Industrial Policy.

'Country Hoedown' for GC seniors

A "Country Hoedown" night, complete with music and an old fashioned cornbread, ham and beans supper, will be presented for senior residents of Granite City on Wednesday, Feb. 15, at the Granite City Township Center, 2060 Delmar Ave. The event will be co-sponsored by the township and the Granite City Park District and participation is free to all Granite City residents, 55 years of age and over. Supper will be served starting at 5:30 p.m., and music for dancing will commence at 6:30 p.m., continuing until 9:30 p.m. A variety of dance music, including country-western numbers, will be provided by Howard Bolton and the Alley Cats.

Supervisor Nelson Hagnauer announced today the township buses will be operating next Wednesday night for senior citizens who are without transportation to the hoedown. Persons wishing to ride the buses are asked to notify the township office, at 877-8484, prior to Feb. 15, Hagnauer said.

TV PROGRAM ON TAX PREPARATION
Tax experts will give line-by-line instructions on how to fill out tax forms on "Your Tax Return: 1984," to be broadcast on Channel 9, Sunday, Feb. 12 at 5 p.m. Viewers will be shown how to save money by taking advantage of the numerous deductions and credits available to them. International Revenue Service telephone lines will be open during the telecast to respond to viewers' questions.

CHARGES ARE DISMISSED
A warrant against David W. Gaines, 24, of Granite City, alleging failure to appear in court on a charge of assault was quashed by the court this week. Court officials said Gaines was charged with two traffic charges and the assault charge in one case, but the assault charge was somehow separated when he appeared in court on the traffic charges. He pleaded guilty to a stop sign violation, paid a $94 fine and a speeding charge against him was dismissed. Gaines said he was unaware the assault charge was still pending until he was arrested again on a warrant. That charge now has been dismissed.

BURGLARY REPORTED
While she was hospitalized recently, Mrs. Helen Ford, 2206 Illinois Ave., said her house was burglarized and assorted clothing valued at $300, a food mixer worth $50 and a table leaf valued at $50 were stolen.

Voter registration continues

Voter registration for the March 20 primary election is continuing through the deadline to register Feb. 21. Special voter registration centers will be operating Friday at Leroy's A&J Market on Pontoon Road in Pontoon Beach from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., and Saturday at Cohen's Foods, 2301 Illinois Avenue from noon to 5 p.m. and the West Madison Memorial Center from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Voters also may register Friday, Feb. 17, at Schnuck's in Crossroads Plaza Shopping Center from noon to

7 p.m. and at Red Fox Grocers on Broadway in Venice from noon to 7 p.m. The final special voter registration session will be Saturday, Feb. 18, at the E&L Quick Shop, 5527 Maryville Road, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Voters also may register with the city clerk in the Granite City hall weekdays from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and on Tuesday, Feb. 21, until 8 p.m. The Madison city clerk will be registering voters Feb. 21 from noon until 7 p.m. and the Venice city clerk will be open from noon to 8 p.m. Feb. 21 to register voters. The clerks will be in their respective city halls. Nameoki Township residents may register with Clerk Donald L. Ridgeway, by appointment in the supervisor's office, and Chouteau Township residents may sign up with Town Clerk Patricia Polley in the Chouteau Town Hall. Any voter may register with Madison County Clerk Evelyn Bowles in the county courthouse at Edwardsville during regular business hours. The courthouse will be closed the next two Mondays for Lincoln's and Washington's birthdays.

Open houses discuss area transit plans

The general public will have an opportunity to become familiar with the content of the preliminary Alternatives Analysis/Draft Environmental Impact Statement for Major Transit Capital Investments at the four informational open houses. These events will be conducted by the staff of the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council in association with Sverdrup & Parcel and Associates and will take place between 6 a.m. to 9 p.m. Feb. 14 at the Regis Building, 320 N. 10th St., East St. Louis; Feb. 21 at St. Louis University's Regier Hall, 3550 Lindell Boulevard, St. Louis; Feb. 22, University of Missouri-St. Louis' J.C. Penny Auditorium, 8001 Natural Bridge Road, Normandy, Mo. and Feb. 23 (Rescheduled from Feb. 9), Clayton Community Center, 2 Mark Twain Circle, Clayton, Mo. Sverdrup & Parcel and Associates conducted the study and presented the preliminary report to the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council Board of Directors at its meeting on Jan. 25. The report examines the cost and benefits of alternative potential improvements to the St. Louis Area's mass transit system. One of the alternatives is a light-rail system linking East St. Louis, downtown St. Louis and Lambert-St. Louis International Airport with a connecting spur through University City to Clayton. The final decision on the future of mass transit within the region will be made by the Council's Board of Directors. Preliminary draft reports are available for review at the locations: East St. Louis Public Library, 405 N. 9th St., Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville Lovejoy Library in Edwardsville, and at the East St. Louis City Hall, 7 Collinsville Ave.

Cable subscribers can expect new channels

By JIM WOODCOCK

Officials from South-Western Cable TV, Ltd., say that area subscribers can expect new channels soon, easier access to pay channels and less difficulty in finding a repairman after business hours.

Those topics were brought up when area officials met last week to discuss the possibility of a regional cable television commission board.

SOUTH-WESTERN vice-president and general manager Dave Olsen said the area can expect to receive new basic channels and be offered new pay channels, such as Showtime, in March or April.

Olsen also said he's "almost positive" that the area will be offered SportsTime, the new sports network venture operated by Anheuser-Busch.

The prime attractions on SportsTime are selected home and road games of the St. Louis Baseball Cardinals. SportsTime also plans to carry Kansas City Royals and Cincinnati Reds baseball, Blues Hockey, Steamers indoor soccer, college basketball from the Big Ten, Big Eight, and Missouri Valley conferences, and other regional sporting events.

"WE AREN'T" in a position now to make the grand statement," assistant general manager Mary Hildebrand said, regarding South-Western's hook-up with SportsTime. "To some extent, it's still speculation."

Another change for the local cable television scene stated for this spring will be making subscribers' homes "addressable" for pay channel service.

Olsen said by adding an additional box to the existing cable box on television, South-Western will be able to add and remove pay channels over the cable lines from its Maryville studio.

Olsen said a change already in effect is that cable technicians on duty after business hours now contact South-Western's answering service periodically to see if there have been any complaints.

Plan Parent Enrichment course

Sister Helen Smith of the Marriage and Family Program at the National Shrine of Our Lady of the Snows in Belleville, will conduct a Parent Enrichment Program. The sessions will begin Monday, Feb. 27, and continue for eight consecutive Monday evenings from 7 to 10 o'clock in the Dr. Tom Dooley Center.

Parents Enrichment Program is designed to teach parents skills for better communication, skills for developing self-esteem, skills for influencing and clarifying values, and skills for dealing with conflict resolution.

Parents of any age children who see danger signals, those who already have problems, those who foresee problems, those with exceptional children or parents who want to become more effective are being encouraged to participate.

For more information or to register, interested persons may contact Sister Helen Smith at the Shrine, 1-397-6700.

In Edwardsville Friday

Injury-riddled matmen begin regional action

By ALAN L. GERSTENECKER
Sports Editor
of the Press-Record

Granite City High School's wrestling team will be the school's first winter sports team to begin post-season competition as it enters the Edwardsville Regional this weekend. As the Warriors prepare for the regional, Coach Bill "Red" Schmitt is not too optimistic about the usual strong Warrior season-ending finish.

In fact, Schmitt does not think the Warriors will do well at all.

"Things don't look too good for us right now," Schmitt said Tuesday afternoon. "Up until last weekend, I thought we were on the road to bigger and better things. But since last weekend, things have become very rocky all of a sudden."

SCHMITT'S REASON for optimism two weeks ago came when the Warriors, despite forfeiting 42 points, went on to win the McCluer North quadrangular meet. At the time, Schmitt thought the team was maturing despite its drawback-riddled season.

Since then, however, the injury bug has overwhelmed Granite City's mat squad, and consequently, Schmitt is prepared for the worst by his Warriors enter this weekend's regional.

"In previous years we've had injuries, but not like this year. We've had a heckuva lot this year," Schmitt said.

"Generally, I think we're usually in better shape than we are this year. We've had injuries like these before, but never as many at the present time. This is the worst I've ever seen."

WHY IS IT the worst? Half of the Warrior starting matmen are grappling with injuries.

"Things don't look too good for us right now. Up until last weekend, I thought we were on the road to bigger and better things. But since last weekend, things have become very rocky all of a sudden."

Bill Schmitt
Warrior wrestling coach

For starters, Granite City's 98-pounder, Jeff Cotter is nursing a knee injury which has been bothering him for more than a year. Cotter, a sophomore, re-injured his knee in the match with Quincy. Despite the injury, Cotter, now 28-2 on the season, is expected to see action on Friday when the regional begins.

Granite City's Greg Nemeth and Mike Lewis, are two more Warriors currently on the injured list. Both are both suffering from hyper-extended elbows. "Lewis will be hard pressed to be ready for the regional. In fact, both will be," Schmitt said referring to Nemeth as well.

Nemeth, the Warriors' 119-pounder and winner of last year's 105-pound division of the Collinsville Regional is currently 24-6. Lewis, at 132 pounds, is 8-11.

THE WARRIOR injury list continues with Steve Knogl (167) and Lester White (185). Knogl, the fourth Warrior grappler battling an injury, is suffering from a hematoma of the left ear. A hematoma is a hemorrhage under the skin with the formation of a blood clot. Of all the injuries mentioned thus far, Schmitt is most optimistic about Knogl, saying he could wrestle with protective head gear. Knogl's record is currently 22-9.

White re-injured an already ailing knee in the recent match with Belleville West and, consequently, missed the following pairing with Belleville White.

Schmitt was not optimistic of White's chances of being ready Friday, saying he's missed two practices this week and went as far as to mention Tracy McElroy, normally a 167-pounder, as a possible alternative Friday. White's and McElroy's records this year are 9-7 and 8-9 respectively.

THE SIXTH and final injury to the Warrior starting lineup is to 145-pounder Mark Whitaker. Whitaker, 13-8 this season, is recovering from a blow to his jaw which he sustained on Jan. 21, during the Hazelwood Central quadrangular meet.

The other half of the Warrior lineup entering the tournament healthy include Gary Mann, (15-14) 105 pounds; Jeff Wakeford, (9-12) 112; Vince Sleska, (12-6-1) 126; Tom Sparks, (9-7-2) 133 pounds; Mark Dowdy, (15-1-1) 155; and Deron Griffin, (7-13) heavy weight.

Following the Warriors' season-ending split with Belleville West and Althoff, Granite City ended the regular season with a 10-6 record in dual meets and one quadrangular meet championship.

DESPITE the winning record in duals and a quad championship under its belt, Granite City cannot anticipate finishing much better than third.

Unfortunately for the Warriors, two perennial powerhouse — Roxana and Edwardsville — are also in the regional. Edwardsville (25-1-1) has lost just one meet, to Riverview Gardens, and tied with East St. Louis. Roxana is currently - in dual meets, and is Schmitt's pick as the regional team champion.

"Edwardsville has only lost one match this year, but I have to pick Roxana over Edwardsville," Schmitt said. "They've (Roxana) fared better in tournaments than Edwardsville."

"Roxana should win, followed by Edwardsville at second and beyond that it's anybody's guess," Schmitt said.

OTHER TEAMS in the regional — in addition to Granite City, Roxana and Edwardsville — include Civic Memorial (Bethalto), Collinsville, Highland, Jerseyville and Wood River.

Last year's winner of the most alike regional, held at Collinsville, was Granite City North. The Steelers won the tourney, their first ever, with 164 points. Edwardsville was second with 127.5 points, followed by Roxana, 74.5; Civic Memorial, 68.5; Triad, 49.5; Collinsville, 37; Jerseyville, 28.5; Wood River, 21; and Highland with 18.

Granite City South finished fourth with 93.5 points in last year's O'Fallon Regional behind Belleville East, 105.5; Cahokia, 101 and Belleville West with 98 points.

FRIDAY'S Edwardsville Regional will begin at 7 p.m. with the first, or what amounts to the quarterfinal round. The second session, which begins at 11 a.m. Saturday, will begin the semifinal round and the wrestlebacks or consolation round.

Later on Saturday, at 2 p.m., the third and final session begins which features the third place and championship round.

The first three-place finishers in each weight division of the Edwardsville Regional, as well as the three other regionals in the same sectional, will advance to the Granite City High School Sectional Tournament held the following weekend, Feb. 17-18.

ALSO INCLUDED in this year's wrestling post-season tournament is a team championship title. This is the first year for the team title format. To help accommodate the team format, the state tournament has been lengthened by a day.

Each of the four teams winning regional titles will vie for sectional team titles. The winner of the Edwardsville Regional, and other regionals in the GCHS Sectional Tournament, will compete in the GCHS Team Sectional title on Tuesday, Feb. 14.

Beginning at 6:30 p.m. at GCHS on two separate mats, the team winning the Edwardsville Regional will vie against the team winning the Marion-Harrisburg Regional in semifinal team competition while the team winning the Cahokia Regional will battle the winner of the Springfield Lanphier Regional in the same head-to-head semifinal match.

After two semifinal team winners are determined, those two champions will go head-to-head for the GCHS team Sectional Championship.

That sectional team champion will then qualify its entire squad for competition in the sectional tournament and will advance to the extended state tournament beginning on March 23 in Champaign.

Times for the Granite City High School Sectional Tournament next weekend are 6 p.m. on Friday for the first session and noon and 6 p.m. Saturday for the semifinal and championship session.

At age 80, bowling DaMotte is still 'Acing it'

He Bowls Four Nights A Week

By AL BARNES
for the Press-Record

It isn't hard to figure out how he got his nickname of Ace. Bowling fans in the metropolitan St. Louis sports area have been calling Emile DaMotte "Ace" since he took up the sport of bowling in 1927 at age 24.

Now, after just celebrating his 80th birthday, the retired Granite City wood pattern-maker is not only an outstanding active bowler, but has expanded his athletic activities by some fantastic feats on the golf course.

He recently shot a highly respectable 54 on the par 35 front nine at Alton's Cloverleaf Course. And, while he tries to shoot at least nine holes each week, bowling is still his favorite.

He started bowling at the old Granite City YMCA lanes (four) in the basement. The lanes were moved to Madison and increased to 12 and finally to 16. That was around 1927.

Shortly after that, he moved his main bowling action to the Granite City House at Niedringhaus and State. The sensational Tom Hennessey, a Granite City native who has written many national records in bowling, was just starting his career in bowling as "houseman" at Granite City House. Hennessey is a sure-fire candidate for inclusion in the Bowling Hall of Fame just being built in St. Louis north of Busch Stadium. No one would be surprised if Ace DaMotte was also voted into the same kiegery's Hall of Fame.

When Bowland opened its doors in 1957, Ace was one of four of the avid top bowlers chosen to be featured in the gala opening ceremonies: The other three bowlers, Pat Peterson, Tom Hennessey and Max Legate, among the best that the sport of bowling has ever developed.

And Ace bowled right along with them and held his own.

In the four-game exhibition which opened Bowland, Ace finished third with 40 pins.

In the four games, Hennessey topped everyone with 924 pins. Pat Peterson was next with 945 and Ace was just five pins less with 840. Max Legate trailed with a still highly respectable 808.

Legate, incidentally, was probably overall and for longevity, the best bowler ever produced in the Quad Cities, says DaMotte.

"Max, at his prime, was sensational," Ace says with obvious sincerity. DaMotte hedges somewhat when pressed to pick the best between Legate and Hennessey.

Ace explains: "Tom came along later and had the advantage of better lanes than did Max. I surely would have liked to have seen them in a head-and-head match, by a miracle, it would have been possible for them to bowl their match at the same age."

Praising, he smiles and says: "Hennessey bowled the first perfect 300-game I ever saw and I can still, to this date, recall how it went. He had a white ball with purple specks. He racked up 10 straight strikes right in the New York pocket. The 11th ball was almost impossible to believe it happened, but it did because I saw it. Here's what happened. The 11th ball went up on the nose of the head pin, momentarily left the four and tenth pins standing shivering... and it then bounced up and hit the four pin and the four rolled over and knocked the 10 pin down to keep his try for the perfect game going. His 12th ball was right in the New York pocket for his 12th strike and perfect 300 game."

Ace still bowls four times a week. Monday's (12:30 to 3:30), Wednesdays, Thursdays and Fridays, all at Bowland.

DaMotte took up bowling along with a buddy, another pattern maker, Ed Pfeiffer. Ever-smiling and genial, DaMotte's visage darkened when asked about his wife, now deceased. "I talked Maudie into taking up the sport around 1957 and we had a lot of fun. I miss her," he said simply.

A faint suggestion of tears misted Ace's eyes as he talked about his beloved Maudie. He recovered his composure quickly and hastily added: "I'd be really off base if I didn't pay my respects to probably one of the greatest women bowlers ever in the entire St. Louis metropolitan area, Mrs. Ted Auferheide, of Granite City. She was great. I don't know whether or not she is still bowling, but if she isn't, it wouldn't be too hard to understand. She must be nearing a still young 90 years old."

Talking about greatness: After talks with both fans and athletes of the Quad-Cities going back to as far as 1910, the name of Emile (Ace) DaMotte, Jr., must be included in the list of area's best athletes.

For Basketball Coaches' Position

Graham one of three SIUE finalists

By AL BARNES
for the Press-Record

A new head basketball coach of the men's varsity team at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville should be named by next Thursday, Feb. 16th, it has been announced by Dr. James R. Buck, director of development and public affairs. The new coach will be the fourth hard-wood mentor in the school's history, following Harry Gallatin, Jim Dudley and Tom Fuglesse.

This change in the time-table of picking a head coach apparently represents a change of plans from last week when Dr. Buck told the Press-Record that a choice would be made this week.

What brought on the change was, according to several members of the selection committee who declined to be quoted, an order by the SIUE president, Earl Larson, demanding the right to veto, as it were, both the selection committee's and Dr. Buck's recommendation for the crucial position.

The field was cut from approximately seven candidates down to three and turned over to Buck Monday of this current week. The trio was:

Larry Graham, highly successful prep coach at Madison High and at Granite City Center Junior College; Bobby Bone, former all-star at Collinsville High and a Little All-American at the University of Missouri at St. Louis and currently head mentor at Union Community College at Union, Mo., and Randy Albrecht, currently head coach at St. Louis' Meramec Community College who also had seven years experience as head varsity coach at a major NCAA division I school, St. Louis University.

Graham, incidentally, was selected Wednesday at a National Junior College Athletic Association

Warriors to meet Trojans this Friday

Granite City High School's basketball team may not be playing at home this weekend, but it have the next best thing. The Warriors, now 9-11, will travel to nearby Madison to meet the highly touted Trojans, 18-2, for Friday's non-conference basketball game.

The Warriors, who have been playing improved basketball lately, playing two close games last weekend, will find winning difficult against the Trojans. Madison is currently on a 17-game winning streak and is currently rated second in the Associated Press Class A basketball poll.

Jeff Gray, the Warriors' hot-shooting guard is averaging almost 20 points per game. That statistic is best in the entire Gateway East Conference.

Gray was trailing Althoff's Bill Meyer until last weekend's Granite City-Althoff matchup.

Not to count the Warriors out of a victory, but they may find winning easier Saturday evening as they travel to Belleville East to take on the Lancers. The Lancers are 6-10.

Action for our readers and Saturday's games begin at 6:15 p.m. Varsity action will begin at 7:45 p.m.

Triad upsets Trojanette cagers, 53-46

By PAULA WISE
of the Press-Record

HIGHLAND — The Triad Knights handed the Madison Trojanettes their first loss of the season, 53-46, Wednesday night in the semifinals of the St. Paul Invitational Girls' Basketball Tournament.

After leading by 10 points at halftime, the Trojanettes relinquished their lead early in the fourth quarter, never to regain it.

The loss put the Trojanettes record at 14-1. The win brought the Knights record to 13-3.

"I'M GLAD it's over with," Madison Coach Carol Cole said in assessing her team's first loss of the season. "It was getting too hard on us."

"There was a lot of pressure on the girls. They didn't know how to handle it. Now they won't be quite as compelled to win. They can relax a little bit," she added.

The Trojanettes completely dominated in the first half and it appeared it was going to be another Madison rout.

The Trojanettes led 14-12 after the first quarter. They increased their lead by another two points on a Regina Banks jump shot to open the second period. Sharp shooting by Madison guard Angie Shipp enabled the Trojanettes to expand their lead even farther 24-14.

THE TEAMS traded baskets for the rest of quarter, making the half-time score 28-18.

When the Knights came out in the second half they looked like a different team. They had switched their defense to a half court man-to-man press. The press, which is usually the easiest for Madison to handle, completely frustrated the Trojanettes.

"When they went man-to-man we just blew our cool," said Coach Cole. "We got them to do exactly what we wanted them to do and then just blew it. Nobody was calling plays on offense and when they did no body listened."

TRIAD COACH Mic Brownfield

also credited her team's press with Madison's downfall.

"Madison was very patient in the first half, waiting for a good shot and working the ball inside. When we changed defenses and went to the press it just seemed to blow them," Coach Brownfield said of the Trojanettes.

Things looked bad for the Madison team from the opening tip-off of the second half. By halfway through the quarter, the Knights had pulled to within four of the Trojanettes.

A basket by Triad's Rhonda Owens just before the end of the third quarter put the Knights within two, 38-34.

The Knights had outscored the Trojanettes 16-8 in the third quarter to get themselves back into the ball game.

THINGS WENT from bad to worse for the Trojanettes in the fourth quarter.

"I knew we were in trouble when we got the tip and Angie took it down the floor and missed the lay-up," said Coach Cole.

"We must work a million hours a week on lay-ups and what do we miss... lay-ups," Cole added.

A little more than three minutes into the fourth quarter Madison gave up the lead. They were never to regain it.

Free throws proved to be a key factor in the closing moments as Madison was forced to foul in hopes of regaining possession of the ball.

Unfortunately for the Trojanettes the Knights are fantastic free throw shooters.

Triad hit eight of nine free throws in the final minutes to ice the game.

AFTER THE GAME Coach Cole was highly complimentary of the Triad team.

"They're a good team. They just out played us tonight," Cole said. "I'd like to play them again in a regular size gym where we could open things up. Then we could play our style of ball."

Coach Cole has stated since the Trojanettes first game of the tournament that the small St. Paul gym limits her team's type of play. Tonight's game was a fine example of Cole's beliefs. The fast break, which is usually the Trojanettes bread and butter, was virtually nonexistent.

The Trojanettes reached the semifinals by defeating Assumption Monday afternoon by the score of 51-30. The Trojanettes completely dominated the Lady Pioneers.

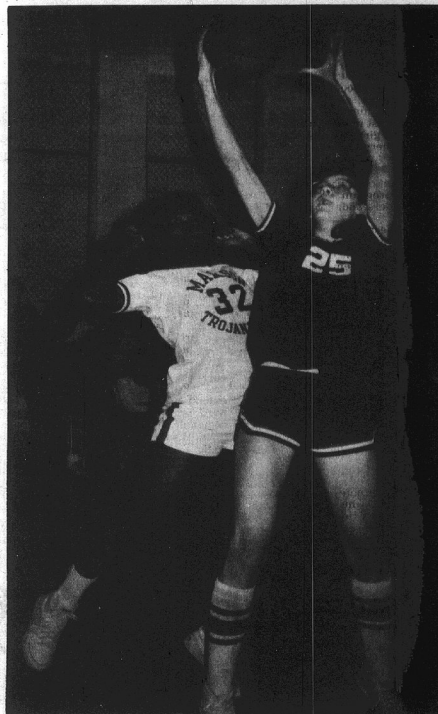

"I thought the game would be closer," said Coach Cole. "I think they're a better team than the team we played on Saturday (Riverview Gardens)."

MADISON came on from a low scoring first half to pound the Pioneers in the second frame. The Trojanettes led by only seven points at the half, 19-12.

"We were really pushing it in the first half. The way we were rushing it looked like we were the ones who were behind," stated Coach Cole.

However, we did come back in the second half and played well."

The third quarter was the one for the Trojanettes to make their move.

TOO LONG, Triad's six-foot two-inch Mary Kate, jumps to shoot the ball. Long out reaches Madison's Angelle Dandridge in Triad's 53-46 upset of the previously undefeated Trojanettes. Then, Dandridge's loss came in the semifinals of the St. Paul Invitational. The Trojanettes will be playing for third place Saturday at 12 p.m.

By outscoring the Pioneers 18-3 they increased their lead to 22 points, 37-35. The deadly Madison press was the reason for most of these points as it forced Assumption to turn the ball over continuously.

WITH 3:40 left in the game, the Trojanettes had increased their lead to 31 points, 50-19. A slight comeback by the Pioneers in the final minutes of the did them little good as the Trojanettes went on to win by a 21-point margin.

The loss to Triad puts Madison in the match for third place against the loser of the Highland-Mater Dei matchup. The game will be played Saturday beginning at 12 p.m.

ASSUMPTION (11): Wright 18, Mosely 24-8, FG 10 FT 11 FT 15, 13, McCoy 1 2-5, McCoy 2 3-4.

MADISON (46): Dandridge 22-4, Walker 2 6, Banks 8 2-18, Shipp 6 0-12, Stanley 2-0-4, EG 21, FT 4, PF 15.

TRIAD (53): Pate 6-2-12, Halde 1 0-2, Gire 7 2-18, Long 2 2-6, Owens 6 3-15, FG 22, FT 9, PF 15.

MAD (51): Banks 7 12-15, Dandridge 3 2-8, Heard 1 0-3, Riley 0 1-3, Shipp 8-4, Stanley 3-3, Walker 21-25, FG 20 FT 11 FT 22.

SCORING: MAD 14 14 8 10-46; TRI 12 6 16 19-53.

Crusaders press Warriors into loss

By ROGER KRAMER
of the Press-Record

BELLEVILLE — The effectiveness of a full-court press is usually measured by the turnovers a team makes, but that wasn't the case Tuesday.

Belleville Althoff's girls basketball team put the pressure on Granite City to defeat the Warriors 61-49 in a Gateway East Conference game in Belleville.

Even though Althoff's 1-2-2 pressure wasn't strong enough to force many turnovers, it was tough enough to force Granite City to force many ill-executed shots. The fact the Warriors made only 24 of 61 shots from the field (39 percent) attested to the success of Althoff's press.

ALTHOUGH ALTHOFF only made 39 percent of its shots (29 of 74), the Crusaders also dominated the boards. The combination of those factors led to a Warrior loss.

"We just got beat honestly," said Granite City Coach Gordon Galbreath. "We didn't work on blocking out under the basket, and we didn't shoot very well at all."

Granite City, 5-6 for the season and 2-2 in the GEC, lost the game in the second quarter. The Warriors scored only six points in that quarter, four by Kathy Juhasz and two by Lisa Lilley. Meanwhile, the Crusaders scored 14 points that quarter, and the Warriors could never bounce back.

"They beat our press a lot, but we thought our defense played a good game," said Althoff Coach Andy Kinsella. "We didn't get a lot of steals or slow them down, but we got them to rush things and take some bad shots."

"WE LIKE to use pressure because it seems our girls are more alert when we use pressure than when we don't. I hope it didn't look like we were rubbing it in, but we did take it off in the last quarter. We just don't think we played that well if we don't use the press," Kinsella said.

Althoff, 7-5 overall and 3-1 in the conference, are starting only one senior this year and are having somewhat of a rebuilding year. However, Althoff had a surprisingly easy time with the senior-dominated Warriors.

Out of the Warriors' top six players, four are seniors this season. Althoff's underclass brigade picked apart Granite City with an outside shooting game. When the Crusaders weren't hitting from outside, they were picking up the rebounds and scoring that way.

FOR INSTANCE, Lisa Schilling, a guard for the Crusaders averaging only two points a game, scored a season-high 19 points to lead Althoff. The bulk of her points came from 10- to 15-foot jumpers.

"We decided to slow down and work for the good shot instead of taking a bad shot," Kinsella said. "When you have someone score 19 points who averaging two points a game, that's something big for us."

Meanwhile, Althoff's Joni Beal scored 13 points and Peg Paszkie, vice added 10 points.

THE DISASTROUS second quarter, coupled with trailing by six at the end of the third quarter, set the Warriors back. Granite City did come back in the second half and actually outscored Althoff 30-28, but it was not enough to get back in the game.

Lilley continued her dominance for the Warriors with a game-high 25 points. The senior forward scored 16 of her points in the second half — 10 of those in the fourth quarter.

"We began to shoot better in the second half and we look pretty well. We just have to work a lot more on blocking out for rebounds. I also thought we could have shot a little better," Galbreath said.

"I was hoping we were going to get Althoff because we have a tough one coming up in Alton. We just didn't do it," Galbreath said.

No other Warrior finished the game in double figures. GRANITE CITY hosts Alton tonight in a non-conference game. Junior varsity action begins at 6 p.m. Alton is led by Cathy Snipes, who is averaging nearly 30 points a game.

Proponents Gather At Board Meeting Girls' soccer at GCHS? A possibility

There may soon be hope for those Granite City High School girls wishing to represent their school on the soccer fields.

During a district school board meeting this week, several persons, mostly parents of girls who have shown an interest in playing, inquired about the possibility of a girls' team at GCHS.

Naturally, there are many questions to be answered, such as cost of starting the program, who'd be the coach, and whether the Illinois High School Association is prepared to begin thinking about such a program. Questions the board members, understandably, were unable to answer at the time.

One such question was one of field space and practicing time. Would the season run concurrently with the boys' season? If it would, practice and game field time may be a problem. Both the Gauntlet and Memorial Stadium are occupied most of the valuable practice time during the fall.

If the seasons were not concurrent, naturally, practice and game field time wouldn't be such a problem. One thing to consider would be to continue the boys' season in the fall and perhaps begin the girls' season in the spring, much like the current seasonal schedule for high school tennis — boys' in the spring and girls' in the fall — only opposite.

Anyway, there's much to be considered. The board assigned Joe Fedora, assistant administrator for athletics and physical education, to study the possibility and report back to it.

More on this later.

On yet another note about Granite City High sports, which also happens to pertain to soccer, one Warrior has risen above the rest. That desire to excel has earned him a national honor.

At Peru State Parker is honorable mention griddier

PERU, NEB. — Nine Peru State Bobcats earned All-District football honors as voted by the NAIA District 11 coaches at their annual meeting held recently at Concordia College of Seward, Neb.

Among those honored was defensive end Jeff, a junior from Granite City, Parker, son of Clay and Marilyn Parker, was named honorable mention to the NAIA District 11, missing All-District status by a single vote.

From his defensive end position, Parker paced the Bobcats with 107 tackles, seven quarterback sacks in addition to picking up two interceptions and four fumbles.

Parker, however, may be on the other side of the line next season as he's a leading contender to fill the quarterback's position left by Mark Sievers who is graduating.

In addition to football, Parker has proven his proficiency in more than one sport. In the spring, he's the Bobcat's shortstop.

Parker's teammates named to the All-District first football team include linebacker Jim Parrish and defensive guard Todd Ross. Parrish, a senior from Falls City, was the Bobcat's leading tackler with 128 stops. Ross, a junior from Independence, Mo., and a Syracuse High grad, finished second in the final district statistics in quarterback sacks with 11.

The Bobcats finished the season 4-5, in a marked improvement over 1982's 1-8 final record.

In addition to Parker, two other Granite Cityans are members of the Bobcats' grid squad. Steve Adams, a senior, was a flanker back for PSU last year and Bradley Watson was a starting cornerback for the Bobcats.

In addition to the athletes, Nick Petrillo, formerly of Granite City, is the defensive coordinator for the Bobcats.

Illini gymnast gets a perfect 10

Illini sophomore gymnast Charles Lakes (Los Angeles) was awarded a perfect score of 10.0 by one judge following his high bar routine Saturday. His score averaged out to a 9.95, the highest score recorded in the country this year.

Sports on the Run

By Al Gerstenecker

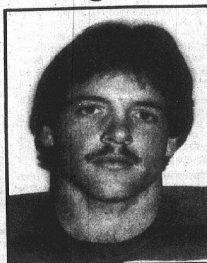

We're sworn to secrecy now, but will be able to release more information on Monday.

Just one more thing. Many of you have come to know one Press-Record sports part-time staffer quite well during the last few years, Roger Kramer.

Unfortunately, Kramer, who received his journalism degree about a year ago from Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, is leaving the P-R sports staff for bigger and better things. He has gotten a full-time position with the Edwardsville Intelligence and effectively begins his new job today.

His time with the Press-Record has been a period, I believe, of growth. He has contributed immensely to that growth.

The Intelligence is getting a good one in Kramer. We'll miss him and his writing.

meeting of Region 24, Section Three to represent the section as the All-Star basketball coach for the coming game next month.

The selection was made by section athletic directors at a meeting held at Belleville Area College. Section Three schools include Belleville Area College, Granite City Center, Kaskaskia Junior College, Lewis and Clark Community College, and State Community College in East St. Louis.

Jay Herrington, basketball coach at BAC, was named as Graham's alternate.

Members of the selection committee include: SIUE's wrestling coach, Larry Kristoff, the Cougars' women's softball coach, Cindy Jones, SIUE's men's varsity baseball coach, Gary (Bo) Collins, John Meisel, from the school's faculty, student body rep, Rich Stamers, and Al Ortega, of the school's intercollegiate athletic committee.

Graham, for the record, has posted one of the best high school basketball records in the history of Illinois. A native of Indiana, Graham has in the past 15 seasons, compiled a sensational 291-122 record including two state championships. He finished his college career at Texas Wesleyan. His performance as head coach of the new BAC campus at Granite City North is also a brilliant 15-6, while at the same time his Trojans at Madison High has put together another amazing 18-2 mark and hold the No. 2 ranking in the entire state of Illinois. And, currently the Trojans have a 17-game winning streak going.

Bone, meanwhile, has put together an impressive record at East Central College at Union, Mo., and is currently 19-6. Albrecht, a St. Louis U. grad, got caught in the Billikins' decline over a seven-year period when the university was struggling with its entire athletic program.

Tentative plans to dedicate SIUE's $11-million multi-purpose building have been set for this coming May, says Buck.

"We'll be able to seat 5,500 and have ample room for other sports that we have lacked in the past." One of the sports sure to be added, he suggested, was women's volleyball. Swimming and diving teams, however, are out of the question, says Buck, explaining: "We lack the funds at this time."

Another potential victim of the budget crunch is men's and women's track and cross country, says Buck. However, present coach of men's cross country and track, John Flamer, has apparently decided to fight the decision. He is reputedly prepared to claim that the decision to drop track was, in fact, a racial move. Flamer, an All-American distance runner at SIU-Carbondale in the early 1960's, is from New York City. He now lives in Edwardsville.

Reports being cut with large trowel

Jim Y. Merchoff, 57, of 900 Niedringhaus Ave., was charged with battery following an incident at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday in which another man suffered two large cuts to his face and a smaller cut to an arm.

Officers arrived outside Ernie and Annie's Tavern, 855 Niedringhaus Ave., and saw Merchoff, who had blood on his face and shoulders, trying to get into a pickup truck. He reported having been in a fight with Ruben Ybarra, 1733 Poplar St., and said the other man had gone inside 931 Niedringhaus.

Police found Ybarra holding a blood-soaked towel to his face and were told that a minor argument had erupted between the two men inside the tavern and Merchoff invited him to step outside to settle the affair. After reaching the side of the building, Ybarra alleged that Merchoff suddenly turned and pulled a large concrete trowel from his waistband, hitting Ybarra twice on the chin and also on the upper left arm.

Merchoff was arrested and charged. He declined medical attention and was released after posting a $102 cash bond to appear later.

Ybarra signed a complaint and was taken by family members to the emergency room at St. Elizabeth Medical Center for treatment.

THREE BIKES MISSING

BPW 'International Night'

By VALERIE EVENDEN
of the Press-Record

"International Night" will be observed by the Granite City Business and Professional Women's Club at its dinner meeting, scheduled Wednesday, Feb. 15, starting at 6:30 p.m., at Charlie's Restaurant. Reservations are now being accepted.

Principal speaker will be Raquel Sarasa, a native of Cuba and a pharmacist at St. Elizabeth Medical Center. Her topic, "The Way of Life in Cuba," will primarily focus on the customs, food and school systems.

In announcing the dinner, Pauline Weir, program chairman, noted the third week of February is observed as "International Week" when members of the International Federation of Business and Professional Women celebrate their unity and purpose.

Although the organization's membership lives in more than 60 different countries, all BPW members participate in international programs which are educational and beneficial to all working women, the chairman said.

It was 20 years ago this month that Mrs. Sarasa became a Cuban refugee and, with only a few personal possessions in a knapsack, left Cuba in a small boat to find freedom in the United States.

She learned the English language at Granite City High School in a special program designed to help citizens from foreign countries.

Mrs. Sarasa held a doctor's degree in pharmacy in Cuba and presently is employed as a staff pharmacist at the local medical center.

Her husband, Jose Sarasa, is a former basketball coach at the University of Havana. He now works part-time as a registered X-ray technician at SEMC.

Mr. and Mrs. Sarasa are the parents of two children.

Their daughter, Raquel, holds a master's degree in psychology and is working as a school psychologist in the Waukegan (Ill.) School System. Their son, Manuel, earned a master's degree in business administration and is employed by the Monsanto Co., in St. Louis.

Also addressing the BPW members at next week's dinner will be Janet Quarton, new executive director of the Tri-Cities Area United Way, who will provide information about the community-wide effort.

Miss Quarton holds a bachelor of arts degree in speech communication and a master of arts degree in speech with an emphasis in interpersonal communication.

She has been employed with the Department of Speech Communication at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville as an instructor since 1976 and has served as director of campus parking since 1977.

Miss Quarton is a member of the Rape and Sexual Abuse Care Center and a faculty advisor to the SIUE chapter of Gamma Sigma Sigma national service sorority and to the women's support group at SIUE.

The "International Week" program will conclude with a candle-lighting ceremony which was originated by Lena Madison Phillips of Kentucky, founder and first president of the first International Federation.

All working women are invited to attend the dinner meeting, which will be held at Charlie's Restaurant, 452-7529, or Ruth Walk, 797-0109.

Others serving on the dinner committee are Lil Marzuli, Rose Stern, Annelle Heine Bischoff and Emylee Alford.

Scott needs home, foster agency says

Scott was physically abused by his father when he was a small child. Although his father is no longer in the home, Scott resents him deeply and has a hard time talking with his mother who has rejected him. Quad-Cities may play a role in his future.

Although he is of normal intelligence, Scott, 17, did not do well in school and has dropped out. This is a turning point for Scott, according to Cindy Ecks, a social worker with the Illinois Department of Children and Family Services. "Scott has set definite goals," she said. He hopes to obtain a GED (high school equivalency certificate) and to get vocational training in heating and air conditioning repair and maintenance.

While Scott's ultimate goal is to be independent and live on his own, he realizes that he needs adult help, according to Miss Eckert. "Scott is becoming more realistic," she said. "He hopes to find a foster family which will teach him the survival skills he needs to learn, in order to live independently, and he is willing to do his part. Doing his part means obeying the house rules, helping with chores and sharing his feelings."

Although two-parent foster families are preferred for younger children, single parents are considered and even sometimes preferred for teenagers like Scott, she said.

Described as good looking and personable, Scott has brown hair and blue eyes. He is 5-7 tall, weighs 139 pounds and has grown a moustache.

"A foster parent who can set and maintain fair rules can make the difference for Scott," according to Miss Eckert. "Scott is motivated and willing, and has suffered enough rejection."

"More foster parents are needed for children throughout the Metro-East area. Those interested in Scott or in another youth or child may call Pat at 876-8985."

THE LAW AND YOU

BY RICK REED
Attorney At Law

Illinois law provides that if an individual dies without a will, one-half of his estate will go to his surviving children and one-half will go to his surviving spouse. It is important to note that a person can disinherit his children, but he cannot totally disinherit his surviving spouse. Even if a person makes a will which says that his spouse is to receive nothing, the surviving spouse can still claim one-third of the estate under Illinois law.

Recently a gentleman came to this office and indicated that he had four children but that he wished only three of them to inherit his property upon his death. He insisted that the fourth child be named in the will to be left the sum of one dollar. It was explained to him that if he wished to disinherit one of his children, he could accomplish this by simply not naming the child to be disinherited and leave him a token sum.

Other than directing how one's property is to pass, there are several other reasons for having a will prepared. A will provides an opportunity for a young couple to designate who will be the guardian of their children. In addition, individuals may wish to leave their property in trust upon their death, and direct the trustee to use the trust monies for the care, support and education of their children. It is generally recommended that the person named as guardian of the children also be designated as trustee of the trust. In this way, the person actually raising the children will also have control of the monies to be used for their benefit.

Finally, a person can also indicate in his will who is to serve as executor of his estate. The executor pays the bills and collects any monies owing the estate. In some states, the person making the will would have to designate an in-state resident as executor. This is not the case in Illinois.

It should be noted in conclusion that joint tenancy property passes outside the will. Let's assume that a widower indicates in his will that his son is to get his real estate, but only his daughter is named on the deed with him as a joint tenant. In this case, the daughter will take the entirety of the real estate upon his death notwithstanding the provisions in the will.

State to honor 100-year-old business

The Illinois State Historical Society will honor Illinois businesses which have been in continuous operation for 100 years or more through a new "Centennial Business" program. Any Illinois business established by 1884 is eligible to participate.

A statewide search for centennial businesses ranging from family-owned stores to major corporations is being conducted by the state Historical Society in cooperation with local historical societies and Chambers of Commerce.

"The citizens of Illinois are proud of the leaders in the business community. It takes strength to survive 100 years and these institutions reflect the very spirit of our prairie state," said Patricia Wallace of Wheaton, president of the society. "The Centennial Business program will provide the recognition these pioneers so rightly deserve."

Those businesses meeting the necessary criteria will be officially designated Illinois Centennial Businesses and will be listed as charter members in the forthcoming "Directory of Illinois Centennial Businesses." The first 200 businesses to apply and be verified will be honored at the premier Salute to Illinois Business Pioneers' recognition banquet scheduled for fall 1984, in northern Illinois.

Applications for inclusion in the Centennial Business program should state: complete name, address, and phone number of the business; name and title of the chief executive officer; founding date, including month and day, if known; description or photocopy of documentation to verify the founding date, and name and address of persons submitting the application. Applications may be submitted to local historical societies or Chambers of Commerce or mailed to: Illinois State Historical

The people of Illinois can benefit from the Centennial Business program through the donation of corporate histories to the Illinois State Historical Library."

The Illinois State Historical Society is a not-for-profit organization dedicated to helping the Illinois State Historical Library preserve materials relating to the state's history.

Money management seminar offered

A Money Management Seminar sponsored by the Madison County Farm Bureau's Women's Committee and Country Companies (CC) will begin at 1 p.m. Friday, Feb. 17, at the Farm Bureau Auditorium in Edwardsville. "It's Your Money—Make the Most of It" is designed to increase awareness and understanding of better personal and business financing.

Emphasizing the "how to do it" of personal and business financing, a CC money management professional will be on hand to talk about the specifics behind "Business Planning" and "Trusts and Their Uses."

In the "Business Planning" portion of the program, participants will learn about tactics in building, operating and transferring a farm or business. The CC professional will put into perspective techniques used in managing a successful small business. The advantages and disadvantages of fringe benefit plans, retirement plans and buy-sell agreements will be discussed.

The "Trusts and Their Uses" portion of the seminar will make clear the practical side of establishing and using trusts. This presentation removes the mystery about trusts, explains basic terms and, through specific examples, illustrates how any financial goal can be achieved with proper planning and the use of a trust.

For more information about this free seminar, interested persons may contact the Madison County Farm Bureau manager at 1-656-5191.

Caution needed in using supplemental heaters

William L. Kempiners, director of the Illinois Department of Public Health, announced today that fires from supplemental home heaters increased 85 percent over the five year period 1979 through 1982.

"Most of these accidents were caused by users' lack of knowledge about proper installation, ventilation, use and maintenance," Kempiners said.

Death figures from fires caused by home heaters during that period went down. This is credited to the increased use of smoke detectors in homes, but more than 150 carbon monoxide poisoning deaths a year in the United States are the result of improperly installed or maintained heaters, primarily gas-fueled.

Kempiners urges consumers to carefully read and follow the manufacturers' operating instructions and keep them for future reference to ensure safe long-term use.

"These heaters should not be used in a closed room," Kempiners said, "even if you have to open a window slightly. Doors to the rest of the living quarters also should be left open."

The Illinois Department of Public Health has the following suggestions on the safe use of supplemental heaters: If there is a strong gas smell, shut off the gas supply to the appliance and open windows and doors. Don't touch any electrical switches, use flashlights, telephones or other possible ignition sources. Call a gas serviceman from a neighbor's phone.

If you own an unvented heater, be sure that it includes a device that automatically shuts off the heater when the supply of oxygen is dangerously low.

Never use a gas cylinder intended for use with a barbecue grill or camper indoors.

If you have any questions about the proper use of your supplemental heater, call the Consumer Product Safety Commission, toll-free number, 1-800-638-2666.

Donations sought to help catch fish and wildlife 'poachers'

Undercover operations against poachers have proven dramatically effective in Illinois, but future investigations may be hampered unless law-abiding sportsmen provide needed financing, according to Department of Conservation Law Enforcement Chief Larry Closson.

Donations are needed to provide undercover law enforcement officers "buy money" to procure illegally-obtained fish and wildlife, Closson said. Illinois law enforcement officers assigned this duty were often forced to use personal funds for this purpose in the past.

"This put us at a decided disadvantage," Closson said. "An undercover agent may have to spend $200 for two deer." Closson cited the recently passed House Bill 333 as an answer to this problem. The legislation makes it possible for citizens to donate to a special "buy money" fund. The Jacob John Wolf Memorial Fund is named in memory of a former Chicago state representative and deputy director of the Department of Conservation, who had long fought for the bill.

"We now have the potential for a funding source which will permit our conservation officers to pursue vigorously those who have a total disregard for the fish and wildlife resources of the state," Closson said. "The new law clears the way for a fund of up to $10,000, based on contributions from citizen sportsmen and sporting groups. This will continue a powerful investigative tool for use against poachers and other law breakers."

"This money will be strictly a cash investigative fund," Closson said. "The funds will be used primarily in obtaining illegally obtained fish and wildlife which will be used as evidence to prosecute the offenders. Contributions are tax deductible on federal income tax forms."

Contributions to the fund as of Jan. 13, included: FISH (Fishermen Interested In Sharing Habitat), Chicago, $500; Troller's Unlimited, South Holland, $100; Shabbona Lake Sportsmen's Club, Shabbona, $50; Maxine Hanson, Stockton, $10; Illinois Charter Captains Association, Inc., Elk Grove Village, $100; Migratory Waterfowl Hunters, Inc., Godfrey, $250.

Closson pointed out that Illinois was one of the few state conservation law enforcement agencies in the Midwest without such a fund until the recent law was enacted. Costs incurred in previous undercover operations were borne either by the individual officer or provided by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service or other out-of-state agencies.

The potential for covert operations is tremendous, according to Closson. He cited the investigation into illegal waterfowling along the Illinois River, sometimes called "Quackscam," which culminated in a series of arrests in November 1980 as a prime example.

Another undercover success was a long-term investigation centered on the illegal sale of sport fish in the Chicago area, Closson added. This investigation featured the establishment of an undercover fish market in Elgin, managed by undercover agents. The operation culminated in mass arrests in November 1982.

"I think both these operations dramatized the problem to the public at large," Closson said. "The Chicago area fish buying investigations resulted in the confiscation of nearly $60,000 of illegally taken sport fish. This was a robbery committed against the law-abiding sport fishermen."

"Thousands of deer are being taken illegally each year by an unscrupulous minority," Closson said. "The sad part is that the honest sportsmen pays for wildlife and fish management efforts through taxes, and then the fruit of these programs is taken by the outlaw. We believe covert operations are a means to rectify this deplorable situation."

"We can put a serious dent in the multi-million dollar illegal commercialization of the state's fish and wildlife resources, but we need the public's help," Closson said. "Citizens may help by providing us with information regarding offenders, or they may wish to make contributions to the Jacob John Wolf Memorial Fund. Either way, they will have the satisfaction of striking back at the outlaws."

Citizens or sporting groups interested in contributing to the "Buy Money" fund may send a check or money order, payable to the Jacob John Wolf Memorial Fund, to: Department of Conservation, Division of Law Enforcement, 524 S. Second St., Springfield, Ill. 62706.

Big Lotto winner is a familiar person at St. Elizabeth

By DEBORAH WILLIAMS
St. Elizabeth Medical Center

The "associates" of the Radiology Department at St. Elizabeth Medical Center were eagerly trying to get a glimpse of Robert R. Rucker last week as he worked on several pieces of equipment.

Rucker, who works for Simens Medical Systems of Maryland Heights, Mo., was on a service call to the SEMC Radiology Department.

It is not that his job is anything the associates had not seen before, but Rucker was a recent winner of the Illinois Lotto Game.

However, the story does not end here. Two other people also won the grand prize, one of which was Rucker's wife, Anna. As a result, they each won $1,018,400, to be paid in 20 yearly installments of $50,920 each.

Since winning more than a million dollars, Rucker has been thrown into the public light. Interview requests are a daily event.

"I've managed to keep my sanity through adversity and everything else," said Rucker, "so I think I can handle this, too."

"Right now, I'd like to get out of the limelight. It doesn't really bother me, but I'm just getting tired of it. I think I'm going to have to take some time off and let things die down."

Despite all the attention and the money, Rucker does not plan to quit working. "I like my job and I'm staying with it," he said.

Plans for the future include returning to school to earn an engineering degree, helping some of his family members and "in about six months to a year, looking for a new house," he said.

Rucker first became aware that his wife had won when their son compared the numbers on his mother's ticket to those listed in the newspaper. Looking at his wife's ticket, Rucker realized the numbers matched those on his ticket. None of the Rucker family members could believe it, they said, until they went to a claim center in Cahokia, Monday and received tentative confirmation.

Rucker and his wife bought their winning tickets at the Reese Drug Store in Madison.

"I bought both her ticket and mine," said Rucker, "but I never know what numbers she's playing. I just handed them a list with her numbers on it and didn't pay any attention to them."

The Ruckers chose their winning numbers using their birthdates and those of their children. The winning series of numbers in that drawing was 6-11-23-25-26-28.

According to a lottery official, the odds of winning the grand prize in that drawing were 1 in 3,538,380 per play. However, this is the first time relatives have won the same grand prize.

The Ruckers have been playing the Illinois Lotto Game ever since it first began on Feb. 19, 1983. "And I will probably keep on playing (Lotto)," he said. "Who knows, I may win again."

Locally, VITA aid is available at the Mexican Honorary Commission, 1801 Spruce St., Wednesdays from 6:30 to 9 p.m., and at the Madison County Urban League, 306 Broadway, Venice, each Wednesday (by appointment) from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

County Clerk's Office at 1-692-4345, Mr. Yancy at the Illinois Department of Public Aid at 877-9200 or a family attorney.

Three attend 4-day seminar

Dr. L. A. Shipley, Granite City chiropractor, recently attended a four-day postgraduate seminar in Las Vegas, Nev.

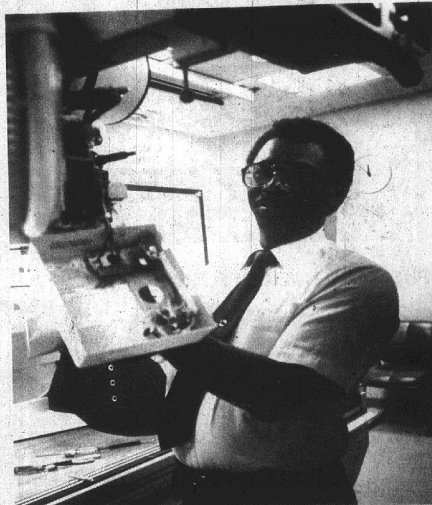

Dr. Shipley and three of his assistants, Mrs. Monica Dresch, Mrs. Mary Knox and his wife, Eileen "Dee" Shipley, joined more than 3,500 other doctors, their spouses and assistants from the United States, Canada and several foreign countries to participate in a postgraduate educational seminar in Las Vegas. This was the 26th seminar sponsored by the Parker Chiropractic Research Foundation of Fort Worth, Texas, in the past 33 years.

A this seminar, Mrs. Dresch completed the necessary requirements of the graduate chiropractor assistant program and now joins Mrs. Shipley as a certified chiropractic assistant.

Fifty-two world recognized chiropractic educators presented 150 classes covering nearly every phase of a chiropractic practice, including the most recent research and developments in chiropractic adjusting techniques, advanced patient care and modern x-ray methodology.

Featured guest speaker for this seminar was Dr. Mark Victor Hansen, nationally-recognized speaker and author.

Dr. Shipley is a graduate of Southern Illinois University-Edwardsville and Logan College of Chiropractic in Cheshfield, Mo. His office is located at 2502 Pontoon Road.

HARD AT WORK, despite winning big in the Illinois State Lottery Lotto Game, Robert Rucker does not want to quit his work repairing equipment such as this equipment in the radiology department of St. Elizabeth Medical Center. Rucker and his wife won $1,018,400 each on the same day, playing the same numbers.

SERIES OF RUG THEFTS

Rug thefts have been occurring at the Charles Todd Uniform Co. in Granite City during the past half-year, authorities learned last week.

Mark 8:37 "For what shall a man give in exchange for his soul?"

Men and women are in pursuit of many things today. Fame and fortune seem to be at the top of the list. People seem to think the more money they have, the happier they will be. Some people take drugs and some drink. People divorce and remarry thinking a change of partners will bring happiness. Sometimes we sell our homes, quit our jobs and move to a different state looking for this elusive thing called happiness.

None of these things will bring a lasting peace to your life. When you become tired of searching, try Jesus. He came to bring peace. His love brings joy and happiness. He loves you so much that He died for you.

Try Him.

AT&T contributes over $4 million to education

ATT&T Bell Laboratories in 1983 contributed some $4.3 million to colleges and universities, primarily to institutions that emphasize science and engineering. According to company president Jan M. Ross, the grants were made to encourage progress in key technical fields important to telecommunications. "We in AT&T recognize our responsibility to the nation's colleges and universities because we count on them to turn out the superior technical talent we need in our business," Ross said.

AT&T Bell Laboratories employs more than 18,000 people in New Jersey, Georgia, Illinois, Massachusetts, Ohio and Pennsylvania. Of these, approximately 65 percent hold technical degrees. Ross said the company's support of technical education also is motivated by a commitment to stimulate greater interest in science and engineering careers in general and among minorities and women in the United States. "If we are to sustain our world leadership in science and engineering, American industry must join with academic institutions to help produce the number of top-notch students in science and engineering the nation needs," he said.

The focus of the company's higher-education contributions has traditionally been on improving technical curricula and laboratory facilities, and supporting university research programs. Last year, AT&T Bell Laboratories also launched a $2 million Ph.D. scholarship program to encourage doctoral candidates in fields related to telecommunications — specifically, electrical engineering, computer science, physics and chemistry. The program covers educational expenses, a stipend and summer employment with the company. IN ADDITION to its contributions to higher education, AT&T Bell Laboratories supported agencies that promote the arts, health and welfare, particularly in communities surrounding its locations.

Art competitor accepts GCHS works

The jury for the Sixth Annual High School Art Competition, sponsored by Washington University School of Fine Arts, has voted to accept 14 pieces of art work from Granite City Senior High School students. These pieces were all completed in the fall semester of the current school year. "We are proud of our students' achievements and are very excited about having 14 works of art accepted to this most selective exhibit," said Ann Eitch, art department chairman for Granite City High School. "The competition is stiff, since all high school seniors and juniors within a 100-mile radius of St. Louis are eligible. This is the third year our high school has entered this competition and the number of pieces accepted has increased each year."

THIS YEAR'S entries were judged by Willem Volkers, faculty member and former director of admissions for the Kansas City Art Institute. Students who had their work accepted include Lisa Beswick, Sonia Bristol, Brian Daniels, Randy Feltmeyer, Lloyd Green, Mike Jones, Judy Rolan, Jeff Stevart, Sandy Stopkotte and Dave Wilmoth. Feltmeyer and Green will each be exhibiting two pieces of work. Jones will exhibit three pieces.

The exhibit will open on Sunday, Feb. 12, at Washington University and will continue through Feb. 29. The exhibit will be displayed in Bixby Hall. Gallery hours are Mondays through Fridays from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and weekends, 1 to 5 p.m. The gallery will be closed Monday, Feb. 20, for Washington's Birthday.

HEARTWORM CAN BE FATAL

Heartworm is a serious parasitic disease that is potentially fatal to dogs. Once thought to be limited to warm, humid regions, it is now present in every state of the Union — and in near epidemic proportions in all states east of the Rockies. The adult heartworm lives within the chambers of the heart and blood vessels of the lungs. Here it blocks or reduces blood flow, leading to death or damage of vital organs. It is transmitted from an infected dog to an uninfected dog through the bite of a mosquito. The larvae (immature heartworms) pass into the dog's bloodstream. They eventually move to the heart regions where they continue to grow up to lengths of more than a foot.

A blood test performed by a veterinarian is the only sure way to diagnose the presence of heartworms. If the test is positive, your veterinarian will begin a program to destroy the heartworms. If the test is negative, your veterinarian will start your dog on a preventative program of daily medication.

Praise for anti-poaching operation

One of the most extensive and successful anti-poaching operations conducted this fall by the Law Enforcement Division took place along the Mississippi River, from Wood River to the Long Island Refuge to just north of Quincy.

The operation was designed to cope with Missouri hunters who hunt illegally in Illinois, reported Conservation Police Officer David Cunningham. The effort began early on Nov. 12, which marked the beginning of the Missouri deer hunting season.

During the combine water, land and air operation, 16 Illinois CPOs patrolled pools and islands aboard eight John boats. They were in radio contact with officers ashore in vehicles and aloft in a surveillance aircraft.

Seventeen arrests and seven written warnings were issued to 16 defendants during the operation. Charges included attempting to take deer in a closed season, no non-resident hunting license, taking waterfowl over the limit, no Federal duck stamp, unlawful possession of buckshot while hunting, unplugged shotgun, no running lights on boat and hunting outside a registered blind on a waterfowl management area.

In addition, CPOs on route to and from the Mississippi River operation charged five defendants with complicity in two separate illegal deer hunting incidents. In one case, two deer, a vehicle, a rifle and spotlight were confiscated.

Those two cases resulted in 17 charges, including hunting without a license, taking deer out-of-season, taking deer by aid of motor vehicle, taking deer with a rifle, use of light from vehicle while hunting with a firearm, uncased gun in vehicle and discharging gun from public right-of-way.

Prior to the detail, Illinois officers were briefed by Missouri officers on their methods and regulations. "Since the detail, we have been in contact with Missouri conservation agents again," Cunningham said. "We have received positive feedback concerning our efforts. We have been advised that 'the world' is circulating locally among Missouri deer hunters about our presence on the river. This, coupled with the number and quality of arrests, number of defendants and the contacts we made with waterfowl hunters, proved the detail beneficial to our enforcement objectives," he added.

4 seeking additional elective terms

ARTHUR 'PETE' FIELDS

By BILL WINTER
of the Press-Record

From a candidate's standpoint, the best way to run for public office is to run without opposition. Four of the members of Demco (Democratic Elected Madison County Officials) are doing just that in the March 20 primary.

One and perhaps all of them will have Republican opponents in the general election Nov. 8, but in the Democratic primary they are unchallenged—and this tends to be a Democratic county.

The lack of opposition indicates apparently widespread public satisfaction with the way they have operated the offices they hold, and recognition of their vote-gathering ability. When a re-election bid seems shaky, rival candidates are quickly attracted.

Announcing their re-election hopes simultaneously, the four are sharing campaign literature costs. The incumbent officials trying for new four-year terms are:

Arthur "Pete" Fields, county auditor; Willard V. "Butch" Portell, clerk of the circuit court; Mrs. Dallas M. Burke, coroner; and Ronald P. "Rink" Lucas, recorder of deeds.

Although they do not reside in the Quad-City area now, two are former local residents—Fields and Portell.

At the time they embarked on the campaign trail in October, they said they planned to "run together for a stronger ticket and also to cut rising election costs."

Collectively, they have 33 years of experience in their current elective offices and 15 years of prior governmental service.

Other Demco members are County Clerk Evelyn Bowles, Regional School Supt. Harold E. Briggs, Treasurer Mick Henkhaus and Sheriff Emil Toffant, all elected two years ago.

Backgrounds of the four 1984 candidates follow:

PETE FIELDS

A lifelong resident of Madison County, Fields, 38, has sought to take a "business approach" to the auditor duties.

He believes he has been "instrumental in keeping a tight budget in Madison County, and reducing the expenses of all functions of the county government."

Fields has a bachelor of science in business administration degree from Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

A Vietnam war veteran who served as an infantryman with the First Infantry Division, he is married and has two children. The family resides in Glen Carbon.

He was an Owens-Illinois supervisor trainee in 1968-71, held Auto Club of Missouri auditing posts in 1971-72 and 1973-75, and was an administrative assistant to the Illinois education superintendent in 1972-73.

WILLARD PORTELL

Auto Club personnel manager in 1975-76 and a food products franchise owner and operator starting in 1978, Fields succeeded John Kraynak as Madison County auditor five years ago and won a full term in the 1980 election.

Kraynak had held the position for 28 years and Fields became his chief deputy. Fields has maintained an approach similar to that of his predecessor while increasing the use of data processing in recent years.

The re-election candidate pledges to "continue to utilize my experience and education to enhance the auditor office's efficiency and effectiveness."

WILLARD PORTELL

Circuit Clerk Portell, 66, has 32 years of experience in county government, including six four-year terms in his present office. Often called "one of the most outstanding court clerks in Illinois," he is a past president of the Illinois Court Clerks Association, The Navy veteran, one of a family of 11 children, lives in Collinsville.

His current memberships include the Supreme Court Committee for Criminal Justice, National Association of Court Administrators, Illinois Court Clerks Association, International Association of County Officials, American Judiciary Society and Lewis and Clark Community College Advisory Committee.

Portell is active in religious, fraternal, civic and veterans' organizations and has participated in many charity fund-raising drives.

He commends, "I have been endorsed by all of labor and by attorneys, business groups, professional organizations and the AFL-CIO Committee on Political Education."

"I have always tried to maintain an experienced, courteous and hard-working staff."

He has pioneered in the operation of satellite offices for court services, and complies with all requirements of the Local Records Act.

He has set many records for fee collections, and annually provides newsmen with copies of his income tax returns.

A close friend of professional athletes and managers, Portell often has been honored by sports figures and others at banquets, but this year he will have a "non-dinner" (tickets but no event) to raise campaign funds.

The numerous divisions of his office occupy parts of three of the four floors of the Madison County Courthouse, plus other locations. His efforts to obtain adequate space for the many services have been largely successful.

He ran for a state senate post in the area north and east of the local district in 1982.

DALLAS BURKE

One of two women who hold county-wide offices here, Mrs. Burke, 57, has been the coroner of Madison County for three four-year terms. She also served as coroner in the last half of 1972 on an appointive basis, after 15 years as a deputy coroner.

A registered nurse, she has resided in Alton for more than 40 years. The mother of five, she became active in funeral home management 36 years ago.

Mrs. Burke has received state recognition as "a dedicated, hard-working coroner." She participated in a national study of the infant sudden death syndrome.

She says she is available at all times and does not hesitate to "go on calls at all hours of the night or day."

Mrs. Burke has attended courses on medical-legal death investigation at many seminars for coroners.

Traditionally one of the leading vote-getters in Madison County, she comments: "I have always served with compassion for local families, and I pledge a continuation of my past service."

RONALD LUCAS

Recorder Lucas, 45, a lifelong resident of Maryville, believes he has shown fiscal responsibility in the operation of his office since first being elected in 1972.

Microfilming and other examples of modern technology have been utilized to meet legal requirements while reducing storage costs, he reports, adding:

"I have cut the expenses and labor costs in the recorder office" in conformity with stringent county budget limits.

Revenue flow and savings have yielded hundreds of thousands of dollars for the county over a period of years, and film filing procedures—utilizing vaults in Edwardsville and Springfield—have assured against fire, theft or other loss of documents.

Lucas is a member of the Illinois State Association of Recorders. A former Maryville village trustee and longtime mayor of Maryville, he was first elected as mayor in 1966. At one time he was an investigator for the office of the Illinois secretary of state.

Past president of Madison County Young Democrats, he is a former member of Teamsters Local 525 of Alton, Laborers Locals 42 and 295 of Collinsville and the Madison County Police Association.

Lucas is a member of the Maryville, Collinsville and Livingston Democratic clubs and is active in other Democratic organizations in this county. He is a former volunteer fireman and holds memberships in the Madison County and Illinois firemen's associations.

Altercation leads to arrest of two

Gary G. Schumacher, 43, of Ladue, Mo., and Stephen S. Todd, 34, of Yardley, Pa., were arrested last week at Charlie's Restaurant, 3120 Nameoki Road, after a disturbance in which two men alleged being attacked by the pair.

When officers first went to the restaurant, they were advised by the manager there was no problem and he declined to say who alerted police, reports noted.

In the parking area, officers were met by Tony Wiehardt of Granite City and Neil Konardy of Collinsville, who alleged they were thrown to the floor by Schumacher and Todd. The men identified the alleged assailants inside the restaurant and the pair was placed under arrest.

Schumacher was charged with two counts of battery and Todd was charged with one battery count. Both were released after each posted a $102 cash bond.

Allege man asleep in car has cannabis

Seeing a car stopped in the middle of East 27th Street at Kate Street early this week, a patrolling officer said the driver, Joseph L. McGowan, 19, of 2666 Edwards St., was asleep inside the auto with the engine running.

Prather School PTA hears Red Cross blood consultant

Mrs. Pat Moxley, recruiter and consultant for the blood drives with the St. Louis Red Cross Chapter of the American Red Cross, was the featured speaker at a meeting, Monday night, of Prather School PTA Unit.

She explained the use of blood and reason for people to donate the life saving blood through annual drives in our communities.

Each year the Area PTA Council sponsors a blood drive and this year have set March 14 and 15 as the date of the project to take place from 2 to 7 both days at Central Christian Church, 2020 Johnson Road, according to Mrs. Carol Franklin, PTA president.

Volunteers are needed to assist with the program, Mrs. Franklin said.

Principal Richard Brinkhoff gave a review of the Weekly Reader survey taken of the fifth grade class of Mrs. Davis. The results showed the students were aware of how the government works but are in need of more confidence in their own knowledge, the principal added.

A nominating committee was named to prepare a slate of officers for election who will serve during the 1984-85 year. Committee members include Brinkhoff, Mrs. Joyce Bohnenstiel, Mrs. Carol Braundmeier, Mrs. Debbie Passig and Melva Winnie.

Each child that was accompanied by a parent at the meeting was given their choice of a R.I.F. book. Mrs. Helen Miller's afternoon kindergarten class, won the $5 award for having the largest percentage of parents present.

A discussion was held on the forthcoming school carnival scheduled for May 4. Mrs. Franklin reminded the group that volunteers are needed for each planning committee for the end of school project.

She also informed the parents to save Campbell soup labels to be used towards the purchase of equipment for the pupils.

A skating party is planned from Feb. 21 from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. at Stoppokotte's rink, and the next meeting is set for 7 p.m. on March 12, Mrs. Franklin added.

Beef producers vote next week on 50-cent check-off

by GORDON BILLINGSLEY

Next week, Illinois beef producers will decide if they want their state to be the 36th to enact a check-off system for promoting beef.

The check-off—a system in which each producer pays a 50-cent donation toward beef promotion—will get its thumbs up or down signal on Feb. 13 and 14 in a statewide referendum. All beef producers in Illinois are eligible to vote.

"A lot of beef producers feel it's high time they get serious about promoting their product," beef researcher Anthony W. Young said. He is chairman of the Southern Illinois University-Carbondale Department of Animal Industries.

"The beef industry is years behind other commodity groups in the promotion field," he said. "Every time you turn on a television you see a commercial for Florida orange juice or hear something about pork."

Young said promoters are hoping the check-off—if it passes—would provide up to $350,000 a year to support their beef promotion relations and research activities geared to increasing beef consumption in Illinois.

About five years ago, beef producers turned down a national beef check-off that would have been government-controlled, Young said. The planned, new check-off would be limited to Illinois and would be controlled by an elected panel of 14 beef producers.

"Experience in other states, however," he said, "shows that about 95 percent of all farmers leave the check-off donations in the fund."

Polling places for the election will be in county Cooperative Extension Service offices. Polls will be open from 8 a.m. to noon and 1 to 5 p.m. each day of the referendum.

More information is available from the Illinois Beef Industry Council, 1700 S. Spring St., Suite 5A, Springfield, Ill. 62704.

In Pontoon Beach DUI, burglary vehicle recovered

Following a breathalyzer test early Wednesday morning, Mark C. Nischwitz of Edwardsville was charged with operating his vehicle under the influence of alcohol by Pontoon Beach Police.

Nischwitz, 32, was southbound on Route 111 Tuesday at 11:40 p.m. when a Pontoon Beach police officer noticed Nischwitz's vehicle go over the curb as he attempted to turn east on Illinois Route 162.

The investigating officer followed Nischwitz until the 400 block of Route 162, noting that Nischwitz's auto had crossed the center line and entered the travel lane of oncoming traffic.

Nischwitz posted $102 cash bail and his drivers' license and was released later Wednesday morning. He was charged with operating a vehicle in the village, Pontoon Beach Police were called to the scene of a burglary and recovered a vehicle stolen from Missouri last month.

On Tuesday afternoon, Feb. 7, Pontoon Beach Police responded to the scene of a burglary of the Adam Petras residence on Lake Drive.

At 5:40 p.m. Tuesday, Petras returned to his home from work to find his home had been burglarized. Missing from the residence was a .38-caliber six-shot revolver, approximately $14 in cash, jewelry valued at $1,300, eye glasses and prescribed drugs.

Police speculate that entrance was obtained through the rear door of the home. There are no suspects.

In the final report by the village police department, Pontoon Beach Police officers Mike Crouch and Sergeant Mike Goodman recovered a stolen vehicle.

The two officers, while on patrol early Wednesday morning, noticed a red 1977 Ford pickup with Missouri license plates parked outside of Smokey Joe's Tavern, 3996 Lake Drive. The vehicle had allegedly been parked there for about a week.

Upon investigation, the officers learned that the vehicle, belonging to Casimir Orzel of St. Louis was reported stolen from Hazelwood, Mo., on Jan. 18.

The vehicle's ignition had been tampered with and the tailgate was missing.

Report details goals for women

Pay inequity, violence against women, the plight of minority women, inadequate child support and collection and poverty are some of the concerns addressed in a report issued by the Illinois Commission on the Status of Women. Representative Barbara Flynn Currie (D-Chicago), commission chairman, said: "Economic equity is critical for a woman, whether she is a student considering a career, a full-time homemaker with no control over marital property, a single parent trying to raise her children, a working woman paid less than a man for a job of comparable value or a retired woman with an inadequate pension."

The five programmatic committees of the Commission—Education, Family, Labor Union Women, Middle and Older Women, and Minority Women—have studied a variety of areas. These include educational opportunity, sexual harassment, adoption, incest, teen pregnancy, discriminatory employment practices, occupational hazards, mental health, insurance and migrant farm workers among others.

"Our report documents the numerous problems confronting women today," stated Rep. Currie. "Through our work, we pinpoint areas for constructive action; most of our recommendations are directed toward changes in legislation," added Currie.

Over the years, the commission's studies and reports have resulted in new laws which improve the lives of women and their families. Among the gains are legislation providing for family responsibility job leaves; requiring family impact statements from agencies submitting human services plans; expanding flexible scheduling in employment; prohibiting sexual harassment in education and employment; providing remedies for victims of domestic violence; increasing women's access to insurance; prohibiting discrimination against students whose parents are unable to pay school fees; collecting data on Hispanic population characteristics; disclosing toxic substances in the workplace; strengthening child support collection; allowing joint custody; mandating programs for displaced homemakers; and encouraging use of school buildings for after-school child care programs.

"We've come a long way—from the time when a woman's right even to hold a job was in question to today, when there is broad support for equal employment opportunity," Rep. Currie commented. "Yet, even though we have accomplished much on the long road to improving the status of women, we still have miles to go. Further discussion, hearings and research in the areas of continuing discrimination are on our agenda as we seek to attain equity in all aspects of our lives."

The Illinois Commission on the Status of Women was established by statute in 1983. All meetings and hearings of the commission are open to the public. Copies of the annual report are available free by contacting the commission at 300 West Monroe St., Springfield, Ill. 62706, phone 1-217-782-8468, and can also be found in Illinois libraries with state buildings. The commission also publishes a quarterly newsletter and a yearly report on legislation of interest to women.
